Apollo Crew Lands OK After 11 Day Trip

ABOARD USS ESSEX (AP) — Apollo 7's astronauts flew their "magnificent flying machine" home from the heavens today and gave searchers 20 anxious minutes before they were found floating upside down in the Atlantic Ocean.

Within an hour, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham were deposited by helicopter aboard the deck of this aircraft carrier, stationed 330 miles south-south-east of Bermuda.

They splashed into the sea just five miles from the Essex, climaxing a sensational 11-day space adventure that put the United States firmly on the doorstep of the moon.

The bearded trio appeared shaky and tired as they stepped onto a red carpet on the deck of the carrier. But they waved happily to acknowledge the cheers of hundreds of sailors and a brisk "Anchors Aweigh" played by a ship's band.

Physicians reported after a quick examination that the three felt fine and were in good spirits.

They were all smiles later when they received a telephone call from President Johnson at the White House.

"I salute the three of you as well as the thousands of men on the space team," the President said. "We here in the Capitol and all over this country and the world are very proud of you this morning."

Eisele replied: "Thank you very much, Mr. President. It was a real pleasure and an honor."

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) were elated over the flight results.

After shaking hands with ship's officers, the happy trio rode an elevator down to the sick bay to begin extensive medical checks.

They apparently suffered no ill effects from the rising atmospheric pressures they encountered during re-entry. Because all three had head cold congestion, there was some concern they might have ear or sinus trouble. But they held their noses and blew hard as the pressures rose to prevent this.

The Essex sailors and a nationwide television audience were disappointed at not being able to see the landing. Color television equipment was aboard, but, with poor visibility, Apollo 7 came down just out of range.

However, the arrival on the Essex deck was telecast via satellite to the United States, giving Americans a good view of America's newest space heroes.

It was the third time that Schirra had come back from space. He is the only one to make three orbital trips and says it is his last. At 45, he says, he's too old to wait two or three years for another flight.

Schirra's last hurrah was as good as his first two, all of which were perfect missions. His Sigma 7 Mercury flight in 1962 was classed as the first "textbook" flight in the U.S. program. In 1965 he piloted

Gemini 6 to an historic rendezvous with Gemini 7.

The fantastic voyage, during which the astronauts described Apollo 7 as a "magnificent flying machine," covered 163 circuits of the globe and 4.5 million miles.

It was history's second longest man-in-space flight, following Gemini 7's 14 days. It ranks first in total man hours in space — 780 for the three men, more than the 534 logged by all nine Russian cosmonaut flights. It raised total U.S. man hours in space to 2,774.

A Russian ship equipped with radar and other electronic devices was near the landing area, presumably to gather re-entry and landing data. The Navy identified it as the converted trawler Ekholg and said it also was nearby when Apollo 7 rocketed away from Cape Kennedy Oct. 11.

There has not been a Soviet man-in-space shot since Col. Vladimir Komarov died during re-entry from orbit April 24, 1967.

Circumlunar Apollo 8 Trip Under Study

Decision Hard Despite Success Of Apollo 7

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With 100 per cent of their flight objectives achieved, Apollo 7 astronauts handed space agency planners enough data to consider launching the next three Apollo spacemen around the moon at Christmas time.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said no final decision will be made until mid-November, after results of Apollo 7's 11-day mission are studied.

But thanks to Apollo 7 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham, a circumlunar assignment for the Apollo 8 crew remains a strong possibility.

Despite Apollo 7's achievements, the decision whether to send the Apollo 8 pilots, Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, around the moon will not come easy.

New York Faces Worst Labor Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest city today faced the greatest municipal labor crisis in its history when its 1.1 million pupil public school system paralyzed by a teachers' strike, its police patrolmen engaged in a work slowdown and its firemen set for their own slowdown.

Besieged by the ranks of organized labor, Mayor John V. Lindsay again called Monday on the teachers' union to end its walkout "for the sake of the city," and told the uniformed services he would not bow to their wage demands.

But if the firemen go through with their slowdown, nearly 90,000 city employees will be engaged in either strikes or job action against the administration by Wednesday.

Lindsay declared he would "stand firm" on earlier agreements with the police and firemen saying that to reopen negotiations would set off a chain reaction among city employees and produce "complete anarchy in labor relations."

During the day police said 2,049 of the 23,000 members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association called in sick while those who reported for work continued to bypass traffic offenders and perform "by the book."

The 10,500-member Uniformed Firefighters Association also voted to reject the city's contract offer and said that on Wednesday firemen would stop performing nonemergency duties.

Rejecting the mayor's plea for a school truce, Albert Shanker, president of the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers, said the strike would continue until the local board, administrator and principals in a Brooklyn experimental school district were removed.

Major Candidates Open Final Blitz Of Ohio Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political activity in Ohio centered on Cincinnati Monday with appearances by Richard M. Nixon, John J. Gilligan, William B. Saxbe and former presidential aide Theodore C. Sorenson.

Nixon, on the first leg of a final pre-election blitz of Ohio, said "a vote for Hubert Humphrey is a vote to continue a do-nothing attitude toward the crime crisis in America."

Before some 15,000 persons in Cincinnati Gardens, Nixon called the vice president a man who "refuses to discuss the great issues, turns his back on the present and looks to the past." He also said the new Gallup Poll shows Republicans substantially ahead in the race to the White House.

Lebanon Boy 'Tours' Store

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 15-year-old Lebanon boy had a ball for himself Monday night in the downtown Pogue's department store.

He outfitted himself in new clothes, rode a bicycle around the nine-story building, set a couple of fires, one of which caused about $500 damage, and threw matches around which, police said, didn't cause a major fire only because of "a miracle."

The youth finally was found when he hammered on a door to the Carew Tower Arcade. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Police said the boy apparently was locked in the store when it closed Monday night.

Traveling with Nixon is Saxbe, the Republican candidate for U.S. senator.

At the Monday night rally in Cincinnati, Saxbe received praise from Nixon as did Gov. James A. Rhodes and U.S. Reps. Robert Taft Jr., Donald Clancy and Donald E. Lukens.

On the Democratic side, Sorenson told a Cincinnati news conference that Gilligan should be elected to the Senate as "an extension of the Kennedy legacy."

"In what I think is one of the most important senatorial elections in the country we need unusual talent," Sorenson said, adding, "John Gilligan has it."

Gilligan told a rally at Xavier University today, "money did not build America—the people did. Only the people can destroy her or save her."

He continued, "you and I are the ones whose health is impaired by the filth corrupting our air. You and I are the ones who are concerned with the lack of genuine representation at all levels of government. We can change these things we don't like if we work together."

At Ohio University, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations George Ball is to speak tonight on U.S. foreign policy. Ball resigned his ambassadorship to campaign for Humphrey.

American Independent Party presidential candidate George Wallace is scheduled to speak in Youngstown Wednesday and in Cincinnati Saturday. His running mate, retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay will be in Columbus Friday.

Antiwar Riots Cover Japan

1,000 Arrested, 150 Injured

TOKYO (AP) — Nearly 1,000 students were arrested and at least 150 injured in a wild nationwide series of antiwar riots and demonstrations Monday.

A four-hour rampage at Tokyo's Shinjuku railway station was one of the city's worst riots in years and authorities invoked an anti-riot law for the first time in 16 years. The law provides for imprisonment from six months to 10 years.

The major labor unions claimed 800,000 persons took part in some 600 demonstrations across Japan. It was the unions' third Antiwar Day observance.

Police said at least 757 residents had been arrested in Tokyo, while lesser disturbances resulted in the arrest of 93 in Osaka, 31 in Fukuoka, 18 in Aichi and 12 in Hokkaido.

Much of Tokyo's Shinjuku station was a shambles after 6,000 students attacked it. The station is a key link between suburban and central lines, and thousands of commuters were delayed as workers tried to clear away debris and get trains moving again. The first morning train was delayed four hours.

The students used heavy logs to batter down 10-foot-high steel walls that police had put up around the station Sunday to protect it.

A bus was burned in front of the station, and the huge plaza was filled with helmeted students carrying red, yellow and purple flags and by spectators booing or encouraging the students.

Ohio U Union Ready For More Negotiations

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—An attorney for a public employees union sent today a telegram to Ohio University officials requesting resumption Thursday morning of negotiations for a new working agreement.

Some 900 members of Local 1699 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees have threatened to walk out unless a major issue of subcontracting certain work is settled.

Union spokesmen say the school has been employing non-union janitorial service at the new campus convocation center.

Commissioners Seek Bids For Landfill Operations

Pickaway County Commissioners Lloyd Melvin, Charles Morris and Wayne Hines Monday passed a resolution to accept sealed proposals from individuals for the operation of a sanitary landfill.

The individuals must supply an acceptable site for the landfill.

The commissioners' action to accept sealed proposals for a landfill operation is basically a "fishing expedition" according to Robert Huffer, the county's prosecuting attorney.

"What they are trying to do is to find out just who is interested in operating a dump," Huffer explained. "It may be the county will have to condemn land and purchase it to circumvent zoning laws," he continued.

The commissioners could then lease the operation of the landfill to the firm or individual submitting what they considered the best proposal.

The proposals for the operation of the landfill must comply with regulations of the Ohio Department of Health and the bids must be accompanied with suggested rates for dumping.

The bids will be opened Nov. 12, just three days before the deadline Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer has set for two area dumps to comply with regulations or cease operation.

THE two dumps include the one in Wayne Twp. operated by William Barthelmas and the dump on the John Bowers farm in Circleville Twp. in the Scioto

River flood plain operated by Lawrence Mets.

The dump operated by Mets cannot comply with the new health department regulations because of its location.

Earlier this year Judge Ammer had set Oct. 1, as the deadline for closing the dumps if state standards were not followed.

However, he extended the deadline when neither the operators made any attempt to comply nor did the commissioners take any steps to establish a county owned and operated landfill.

With the exception of Darby

Twp. and Salter Creek Twp., all other areas in the county have zoning regulations which prohibit the establishment of a landfill or dump by individuals or private firms.

In other business yesterday, the commissioners passed a resolution to accept bids for two 24-passenger school buses on Nov. 12. The buses will be used by the Pickaway County Mental Health Board to transport children and adults to the Brooks-Yates School for Retarded Children and to the Adult Workshop. Both are located at the Wayne Twp. School building.

Hecklers Drown Wallace Out During Farm Talk

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — George C. Wallace had an encounter Monday night with college student hecklers whose noisy outbursts broke up his first major farm policy speech of the presidential campaign.

In a loud voice, amplified by a public address system, Wallace tried to drown out approximately 200 protesting students at Moline, Ill., but finally gave up. The third-party candidate told his followers in the crowd in the heart of the farm belt that they could read about the farm program in their newspapers or hear it on radio or television newscasts.

The 10-point farm program included a proposed ceiling on subsidy payments to "giant corporate farm structures" and loans to finance grain warehouse co-operatives.

Wallace also criticized the Republican and Democratic parties in outlining the program. He said that because of "government mismanagement, experimentation and, worst of all, unconcern," farmers are worse off economically than at any time since the 1930s.

The years since Hubert H. Humphrey became vice president in 1965 "probably will go down... as the worst four years American agriculture has ever experienced," Wallace said.

He promised to bring farm prices up to 100 per cent of parity and said that as agricultural income rises, government regulations, if he becomes president, will gradually be eliminated.

To administer an REA-like loan program for grain co-ops, he suggested creation of a national feed grain authority. Farmers and small-town grain operators could use the warehouses to store and merchandise their products, he said.

His farm program also included a proposed watchdog commission to "sit in judgment" on federal farm policies.

State AFL-CIO Says Newspaper Ad 'Deceitful'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio AFL-CIO placed advertisements in three Roman Catholic weekly newspapers Monday in response to an earlier one implying that legislators voting against Senate Bill 350 opposed state aid to Roman Catholic school children.

The bill is the omnibus tax increase and education appropriation measure. All but two of the negative votes were cast by Democrats.

The initial ad, reportedly paid for by an employee in the state auditor's office, was published in the diocesan papers in Columbus and Steubenville and in the Catholic Telegraph of Cincinnati.

The AFL-CIO called the ad "deceitful" and "a deliberate attempt to distort the truth about the Democratic party's position on state support of public and parochial school systems."

Vest-Pocket Cease-Fire Comes To End

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners today shelled the third U.S. military headquarters in the past three days, indicating that a new wave of attacks against major American bases may have begun.

About 30 rounds of 102-pound Russian-made artillery shells slammed into the headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division at Dong Ha and a nearby South Vietnamese village just below the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone. Three American Marines and three South Vietnamese civilians were killed. The wounded were 15 U.S. Marine, Navy and Army personnel, two South Vietnamese soldiers and nine civilians.

Airline Mechanics Demand 40 Per Cent Wage Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline mechanics, whose big contract raises helped squash President Johnson's economic guidelines two years ago, are going for even bigger increases—a whopping 40 per cent—in new negotiations.

Talks between the Machinists union and seven major airlines, five of which were struck for six-weeks in 1966, start next month.

The union asked for 30 per cent raise over three years last time out and wound up with a wage and benefit package the government estimated at 15 per cent and the union set at about 18 per cent.

Either way, the contract shattered the administration's 3.2 per cent a year guideline, and by the end of the year Johnson had abandoned the guideline for a more flexible approach.

Settlements of 5 per cent or better in the electrical industry, rails, trucking and autos followed the airline pact.

The two sides are starting out with what the union calls "separate but coordinated bargaining" in hopes of avoiding government pressures stirred up during the 1966 negotiations.

"We don't want compulsory arbitration," said a union spokesman. "We don't want Congress involved in this."

President Johnson temporarily blocked a strike in 1966 by invoking the Railway Labor Act's 60-day cooling-off period in April and creating an emergency board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

The union rejected the 3.5 per cent raise recommended by the Morse panel and walked out in July. When the strike ended the House was considering a Senate-passed resolution ordering the strikers back to work for 30 days and giving President Johnson authority to order them back for another 150 days.

Despite this year's separate bargaining, all seven contracts expire on the same date, Dec. 31, less than a month before the inauguration.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, which bargains for about 50,000 airline mechanics, is seeking a package which would raise top pay to $6 an hour in 1971. Men at the top of the wage scale are now earning $4.14 per hour, plus a 5-cent hourly bonus to flight-line mechanics and up to 10 cents an hour extra in longevity pay.

"What they are trying to do is to find out just who is interested in operating a dump," Huffer explained. "It may be the county will have to condemn land and purchase it to circumvent zoning laws," he continued.

The commissioners could then lease the operation of the landfill to the firm or individual submitting what they considered the best proposal.

The proposals for the operation of the landfill must comply with regulations of the Ohio Department of Health and the bids must be accompanied with suggested rates for dumping.

The bids will be opened Nov. 12, just three days before the deadline Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer has set for two area dumps to comply with regulations or cease operation.

THE two dumps included the one in Wayne Twp. operated by William Barthelmas and the dump on the John Bowers farm in Circleville Twp. in the Scioto

River flood plain operated by Lawrence Mets.

The dump operated by Mets cannot comply with the new health department regulations because of its location.

Earlier this year Judge Ammer had set Oct. 1, as the deadline for closing the dumps if state standards were not followed.

However, he extended the deadline when neither the operators made any attempt to comply nor did the commissioners take any steps to establish a county owned and operated landfill.

With the exception of Darby

Twp. and Saltcreek Twp., all other areas in the county have zoning regulations which prohibit the establishment of a landfill or dump by individuals or private firms.

In other business yesterday, the commissioners passed a resolution to accept bids for two 24-passenger school buses on Nov. 12. The buses will be used by the Pickaway County Mental Health Board to transport children and adults to the Brooks-Yates School for Retarded Children and to the Adult Workshop. Both are located at the Wayne Twp. School building.

Hecklers Drown Wallace Out During Farm Talk

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — George C. Wallace had an encounter Monday night with college student hecklers who noisy outbursts broke up his first major farm policy speech of the presidential campaign.

In a loud voice, amplified by a public address system, Wallace tried to drown out approximately 200 protesting students at Moline, Ill., but finally gave up. The third-party candidate told his followers in the crowd in the heart of the farm belt that they could read about the farm program in their newspapers or hear it on radio or television newscasts.

The 10-point farm program included a proposed ceiling on subsidy payments to "giant corporate farm structures" and loans to finance grain warehouse co-operatives.

Wallace also criticized the Republican and Democratic parties in outlining the program. He said that because of "government mismanagement, experimentation and, worst of all, concern," farmers are worse off economically than at any time since the 1930s.

The years since Hubert H. Humphrey became vice president in 1965 "probably will go down . . . as the worst four years American agriculture has ever experienced," Wallace said.

He promised to bring farm prices up to 100 per cent of parity and said that as agricultural income rises, government regulations, if he becomes president, will gradually be eliminated.

To administer an REA-like loan program for grain co-ops, he suggested creation of a national feed grain authority. Farmers and small-town grain operators could use the warehouses to store and merchandise their products, he said.

His farm program also included a proposed watchdog commission to "sit in judgment" on federal farm policies.

State AFL-CIO Says Newspaper Ad 'Deceitful'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio AFL-CIO placed advertisements in three Roman Catholic weekly newspapers Monday in response to an earlier one implying that legislators voting against Senate Bill 350 opposed state aid to Roman Catholic school children.

The bill is the omnibus tax increase and education appropriation measure. All but two of the negative votes were cast by Democrats.

The initial ad, reportedly paid for by an employee in the state auditor's office, was published in the diocesan papers in Columbus and Steubenville and in the Catholic Telegraph of Cincinnati.

The AFL-CIO called the ad "deceitful" and "a deliberate attempt to distort the truth about the Democratic party's position on state support of public and parochial school systems."

Vest-Pocket Cease-Fire Comes To End

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners today shelled the third U.S. military headquarters in the past three days, indicating that a new wave of attacks against major American bases may have begun.

About 30 rounds of 102-pound Russian-made artillery shells slammed into the headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division at Dong Ha and a nearby South Vietnamese village just below the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone. Three American Marines and three South Vietnamese civilians were killed. The wounded were 15 U.S. Marine, Navy and Army personnel, two South Vietnamese soldiers and nine civilians.

Airline Mechanics Demand 40 Per Cent Wage Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline mechanics, whose big contract raises helped squash President Johnson's economic guidelines two years ago, are going for even bigger increases—a whopping 40 per cent—in new negotiations.

Talks between the Machinists union and seven major airlines, five of which were struck for six-weeks in 1966, start next month.

The union asked for 30 per cent raise over three years last time out and wound up with a wage and benefit package the government estimated at 15 per cent and the union set at about 18 per cent.

Either way, the contract shattered the administration's 3.2 per cent a year guideline, and by the end of the year Johnson had abandoned the guideline for a more flexible approach. Settlements of 5 per cent or better in the electrical industry, rails, trucking and autos followed the airline pact.

The two sides are starting out with what the union calls "separate but coordinated bargaining" in hopes of avoiding government pressures stirred up during the 1966 negotiations.

"We don't want compulsory arbitration," said a union spokesman. "We don't want Congress involved in this."

President Johnson temporarily blocked a strike in 1966 by invoking the Railway Labor Act's 60-day cooling-off period in April and creating an emergency board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

The union rejected the 3.5 per cent raise recommended by the Morse panel and walked out in July. When the strike ended the House was considering a Senate-passed resolution ordering the strikers back to work for 30 days and giving President Johnson authority to order them back for another 150 days.

Despite this year's separate bargaining, all seven contracts expire on the same date, Dec. 31, less than a month before the inauguration.

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, which bargains for about 50,000 airline mechanics, is seeking a package which would raise top pay to $6 an hour in 1971. Men at the top of the wage scale are now earning $4.14 per hour, plus a 5-cent hourly bonus to flight-line mechanics and up to 10 cents an hour extra in longevity pay.

Astronauts Wives Happy Over Successful Voyage

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — "It looks like they've lost weight," said Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Jr., as her astronaut husband stepped onto the deck of the carrier Essex.

And then she spotted the beard her husband acquired in 11 days in space, laughed, and said "I hope he isn't too attached to it."

Sombody mentioned that it would be shaved off soon.

"Gee," said 14-year-old Suzanne Schirra, "they're going to be real people again."

That's how it was at the Schirra's house in Timber Cove. There were similar scenes at the Nassau Bay home of civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham and at the home in El Lago of Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele.

"Those beards don't look bad at all," said Lo Ella Cunningham.

was shelled Sunday. The next day enemy gunners zeroed in on the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division at Dong Tam, 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

The new shelling came as a 36-hour cease-fire along the coast of North Vietnam to permit the release of 14 North Vietnamese prisoners of war held by the United States ended at noon.

One U.S. military source said he assumed fighter-bombers were resuming raids on North Vietnamese supply columns and barges in the 288-square mile coastal area that was declared off limits at midnight Sunday.

The cease-fire negotiated in the Laotian capital of Vientiane, silenced enemy shore batteries and anti-aircraft guns along a 25-mile strip of coastline to permit a U.S. Navy ship to land the 14 POWs south of the North Vietnamese city of Vinh.

U.S. officers said there were no reports the truce had been violated.

While North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi were believed debating whether to accept U.S. terms for an end to the bombing of the North, U.S. jets continued their raids on the North Vietnamese panhandle outside the cease-fire area, and spokesmen said more "strikes as usual" are planned for Wednesday.

The Viet Cong's Liberation Press Agency said today that the United States has no right to demand reciprocity for a bombing halt in the North, and that the Paris peace talks will progress only after an unconditional bombing halt.

The lull in ground fighting, now in its fourth week, continued. Some see it as a possible de-escalation move by Hanoi, but the U.S. Command feels differently.

The command announced today that allied troops seized more than 300 tons of enemy munitions and food during September. Most of these supplies were found in the 3rd Corps area that includes Saigon and in the five northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone.

Nobody will ever know what went through the minds of the wives of the Apollo 7 trio during that 28 minutes. Afterward they were able to joke about it.

When Harriet Eisele heard the spacecraft was upside down in the Atlantic, she exclaimed "Well, he said it was a lousy boat."

Schirra had quipped during one of the practice sessions that the Apollo 7 "is a good spacecraft but a lousy boat."

But Mrs. Eisele said of her feeling during the wait: "It was fear."

Once the three appeared on the carrier deck, there was a shout of joy in the Schirra home and the sound of champagne corks popping.

Saigon Says Reds Haven't Pulled Back

SAIGON (AP) — Vietnam's defense minister disputed today Pentagon intelligence evaluations that concluded five North Vietnamese divisions had pulled out of South Vietnam.

The Washington report had been interpreted by some as possibly indicating that North Vietnam was scaling down the war.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, the minister, said there has been no sign of de-escalation on the part of the enemy.

Vy's comments to newsmen were somewhat representative of the split between the United States and Saigon over the current Washington initiative aimed at getting the war scaled down and moving the Paris peace talks forward.

The United States has stopped short of saying that there are any signs of de-escalation, but generally sources try to leave the question open. The Vietnamese do not.

Generally speaking the South Vietnamese government is suspicious both of the Washington initiative and any Hanoi signals on the subject, direct or indirect.

LBJ Signs Gun Control Bill, Calls For More Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a gun control law restricting interstate sale of rifles, shotguns, and ammunition. He said it was the most comprehensive gun control law ever signed, but that "not nearly enough" had been done.

The President had called for licensing of gun owners and registration of all firearms, but he said "the voices of a powerful lobby—a gun lobby" have prevailed "for the moment in an election year."

"Big as this bill is, it still falls short," the President said because of the lack of licensing and registration provisions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the Secret Service orders a safe car for the president, it doesn't want seatbelts and headrests getting in the way.

This was evident in a new 21-foot, custom-built Lincoln Continental limousine received by the White House Monday.

There are seatbelts on the forward-facing rear seats the President and his party use, but not on the front seats.

The Secret Service wanted it that way so agents can get in and out fast, said a Ford spokesman.

And the bullet-proof plate between the front and rear seats doesn't allow room for headrests, which are required on standard cars built after Jan. 1.

The cost of long, duck-bomb and bullet resistant vehicle wasn't revealed. But Ford did say the government leases the car at below factory cost.

Gadgets on the car include a public address system, and a rear roof that can be opened or covered with glass, a reflective aluminum heat shield or a black vinyl top for formal occasions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans a news conference this week but the White House says it will not necessarily be linked to Vietnam peace negotiations.

"I think if we had some major announcement to make we would do it some other way," press secretary George Christian said Monday.

Christian said the day and time for the conference has not been set but he hoped to provide enough advance notice to permit live television and radio coverage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newly opened Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y., is receiving a $5 million grant from the United States as "a token of the love and admiration" Americans feel for Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President Johnson signed Monday a $446.6 million appropriations bill containing the funds and sent Eisenhower, a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital, a letter reading: "Surely no tribute to those qualities of yours could be more fitting than an institution of higher learning."

The school opened its doors in September with a freshman class of 295 and a faculty of 26.

Johnson declared: "Today we begin to disarm the criminals, the careless and the insane." He said "All people in the country concerned about law and order should hail this day."

Passage of the bill gained impetus after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The bill bans the mail order sale of all guns and ammunition, but Congress beat back efforts to include registration of weapons and licensing of owners.

Climaxing years of controversy, the legislation won final approval from the Senate and the House shortly before Congress adjourned last week.

The legislation supplants the firearms section of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act passed within days of Kennedy's assassination.

The crime act banned interstate mail order sales of pistols, their over-the-counter sale to nonresidents of a state and their sale to persons under 21.

The legislation represents the most far-reaching gun control measure enacted since 1938 when the National Firearms Control Act imposed the first limited restrictions on sports and other general weapons. Violators are subject to penalties of up to five years' imprisonment or a $5,000 fine, or both.

Here are principal provisions from the new bill:

—Interstate sales of all firearms and ammunition by mail are prohibited, except among federally licensed manufacturers, importers, dealers and collectors.

—Over-the-counter sales of firearms to nonresidents of a state are banned, except that a person can purchase a rifle or shotgun, but not a handgun, in an adjoining state if it is legal under the laws of both states.

—In such out-of-state purchases, the buyer has to file an affidavit of eligibility and toll-free time for a police check, the seller cannot make delivery for seven days.

—On mail order sales within a state, this affidavit and waiting-period procedure also apply.

—Sales of handguns and handgun ammunition are banned to people under 21, and sales of rifles and shotguns and ammunition for them are prohibited to people under 18.

—Dealers and others are required to keep records of the name, age and residence of those to whom they sell firearms.

—Transportation in interstate or foreign commerce of stolen firearms or ammunition, or firearms from which the serial number has been removed, is illegal.

—Imports of all surplus military firearms are unlawful, effective immediately. The rest of the legislation takes effect Dec. 16.

—Sales of firearms to mental incompetents, drug addicts, felons, fugitives and people under indictment are prohibited.

—For carrying a firearm while committing a federal felony, a person is subject to an additional penalty of one to 10 years for a first offense and 5 to 25 years for a second offense. These penalties, however, can run concurrently with the sentence or the crime itself.

—Destructive devices such as bombs, grenades, anti-tank guns and bazookas are brought under the 1934 National Firearms Act, which was aimed at gangster-type weapons and requires federal registration of sawed-off shotguns.

No School Friday For Area Students

The 13,000-member Central Ohio Teachers Assn. will meet in Columbus on Friday, for its 97th annual session, Robert F. Schultz, president of the organization, announced today.

Schultz is superintendent of Delaware City Schools.

City and county schools will be closed all day on Oct. 25 to enable teachers and administrators to attend the convention.

Theme of the convention, "A Century of Educational Progress," reflects the fact that COTA was founded in 1868.

Two general sessions will be held simultaneously from 9:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., Schultz explained. One will be staged in the Franklin County Veterans Memorial, 300 W. Broad St., and the other in Merston Auditorium at Ohio State University.

Two keynote speakers, Dr. Elden T. Smith and Mrs. Billie Davis, will be heard at each general session.

Dr. Smith, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, will speak on "Progress Is Tomorrow." The first native Ohioan to head Ohio Wesleyan, Dr. Smith presently serves as chairman of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges.

Mrs. Davis, a prolific writer and nationally recognized speaker for educational and religious organizations, will speak on the subject "The Story of a Hobo Kid."

Connally, who sat out an earlier Humphrey campaign tour, has since joined Sen. Ralph Yarborough, leader of a liberal Democratic party wing long at odds with Connally, in support of Humphrey.

"When you've got John Connally and Ralph Yarborough on your side how can you lose?" said Humphrey in remarks prepared for an airport rally at Fort Worth.

Polls taken by the Democrats show Humphrey leading Nixon by two to four percentage points and widening his lead. But the Republicans have polls showing Nixon ahead and most observers state the state a toss-up.

Third party candidate George C. Wallace is also running strong in Texas with polls giving him 20 to 25 per cent of the vote.

Humphrey criticized Wallace, saying he "dishes out some mighty tough talk about law and order and claims to be the friend of the working man. If it weren't so serious, it would be ridiculous."

Humphrey said that when Wallace was governor of Alabama the state had the highest murder rate in the country and the third lowest wages for its working people.

"He was a union-busting governor, and you know it," Humphrey said.

Humphrey, who campaigned Monday in New York City on a rising note of optimism, shrugged off the latest national opinion sampling which showed Nixon still with a commanding lead over his Democratic rival although by a slightly smaller margin than a few weeks earlier.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market widened its loss a bit in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

The market rose at the opening but soon lapsed into irregularity and then began to lose ground.

A wide early advantage in favor of gains over losses disappeared, and minus signs outnumbered pluses by fewer than 100 issues going into the afternoon.

Changes of most leading issues were narrow, but some of the higher-priced glamor stocks dropped a few points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.2 at 338.2, with industrials off 1.2, rails off .4, and utilities off .2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher on balance as trading fell below Monday's pace.

Presidential Campaigning Dramatized By Exhibitions

As the presidential campaign picks up steam, Americans are wearing more and more celluloid campaign buttons.

Party headquarters are lavishly adorned with bunting and posters. Literature with color galore and admen's slogans are distributed generously to millions of voters.

Free exhibitions of campaign buttons and other paraphernalia associated with previous presidential races are being held in several American cities until Election Day.

The most elaborate exhibition being systematically covered is the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology in Washington, D. C.

Others are in the Woodrow Wilson Birthplace in Staunton, Va., the New Haven Colony Historical Society Building, New Haven, Conn., and the Theodore Roosevelt Birthplace at 28 East 20th Street, New York City.

These election year shows illustrate Americana and history of campaigns with political cartoons, buttons, torches, handbills, photographs and sounds.

The Smithsonian exhibition contains some of the more than 30,000 items of the collection of Ralph E. Becker, who had saved campaign materials for more than 30 years.

Called "The Quest for the Presidency," the show features the continuous playing of a record of campaign songs. There is a tape with the voices of 13 presidents from Grover Cleveland to Lyndon B. Johnson. The rarest record is of the "Cross of Gold" classic given by William Jennings Bryan at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago 72 years ago.

Bryan recorded it several years after he had delivered it. There are huge campaign banners, the original Teddy Bear, copied from a newspaper cartoon for the Theodore Roosevelt children, front-page headlines of elections, and countless campaign buttons.

Stokes-Lucas Contest Eyed In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Louis Stokes and Charles P. Lucas fought together all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court to open the way for election of Ohio's first Negro congressman.

They fought separately through the May primary elections and now, short of money and working door-to-door, they're battling each other to represent the 21st Congressional District.

Stokes, 43, a Democrat, is the brother of Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes. Lucas, a 56-year-old Republican, is a former Cleveland Transit Board member.

Close friends and active civil rights workers, their battlefield lies on Cleveland's largely Negro East Side. Both say a desperate shortage of funds has confined them to door-to-door canvassing.

"I guess by the time this is all over we'll have walked miles," Lucas said. "I seem to be pounding the streets every night. It is the only way to try to get the message across."

Stokes, who leaned heavily on his brother's name and popularity in the May primary when he used the slogan: "A different Stokes for the same folks," is trying to establish himself as his own man.

Ex-Cincy Police Lieutenant Arthur Mehring Dies At 54

CINCINNATI (AP) — Arthur Mehring, retired police department lieutenant and well known for his work in traffic safety programs, died early Monday in Christ Hospital. He was 54.

For many years Mehring was known as Cincinnati's traffic "eye in the sky" as twice daily — during the morning and evening rush hours — he broadcast traffic conditions from a helicopter. After his retirement from the police department in 1966 after 30 years of service, he joined the staff of radio station WSW as director of safety activities and continued to do the daily traffic condition broadcasts.

Mehring had been in ill health for some time and returned to the hospital recently.

In 1948, while still a police sergeant, he was one of the relatively few police officers, nationally, to win a Kemper Foundation scholarship at Northwestern University where he took special studies. He won many honors for himself and his sponsors for his work in traffic and safety control activities.

Before his retirement, Mehring's traffic broadcasts also were made over station WLW and he turned payment for those services over to a special fund for police training.

During his helicopter services he often performed services other than report traffic conditions. He often spotted stolen cars and aided in crowd control. He at times made landings to aid accident victims. On one occasion the helicopter landed so he could rescue a lost child he had spotted. On another occasion he directed his pilot to a grass fire which they blew out with the air from the helicopter's rotor.

Even in World War II, he was a traffic specialist. After being commissioned a second lieutenant he was assigned as a traffic division instructor in the Provost Marshal General School in Texas.

He is survived by his widow, the former Ann Murphy, a son and a daughter. He met his wife in 1940 after she had received a traffic citation for speeding. Mehring was an instructor in the traffic school she was directed to attend.

Big Bank Vault Floats In Air

MONTREAL — Possibly the most beautiful bank vault in history, and probably the oldest, is one recently built here that looks as though it is "floating in the air."

A 3,000-ton structure, made of glass and Canadian granite, the unique vault stands outside the main bank in a rear courtyard facing famous Notre Dame Street in the heart of the city.

Measuring 75 feet in length and two stories high, the vault houses more than 2,000 safe deposit boxes, plus cash and securities worth more than $2 billion.

The illusion of the "floating building" has been achieved by raising the vault one story above the ground and resting it on two small pillars at the base.

The reasons for the odd structure? The raised construction of the vault was designed in order to eliminate the possible occurrence of flood. This design offers an important security advantage: In case of bomb attack, earthquake or other violent catastrophe, the entire building could crumble. Yet the new vault would merely fall to the ground, remaining intact and completely secure.

The vault contains two separate compartments, each one story high, with sealed entrances connected to the edifice on the second and third floors. The entrances are secured by two 27-ton steel vault doors, each two feet thick and eight feet high.

When closed, each door fits flush against the inner door frame of the vault, leaving a two-inch wide open space between the edge of the door and the door jamb on one side.

A finely milled piece of steel is electronically moved into position, completely sealing the space along the side of the door. With this wedge in position, the door is sealed and "wedge-locked," making it impossible to move.

The wedge-lock design of the vault doors eliminates the need of locks and dials on the exterior, thus providing sharp, clean lines of simple beauty.

The vault is part of a 32-story structure called the Edifice Banque Canadienne Nationale. It serves as new headquarters for some 620 branches of the bank in Quebec Province, in Ontario and Manitoba.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

A Needed Service

A member of the Interstate Commerce Commission the other day urged the railroads to promote passenger service. There still are nearly 600 railroad passenger trains in operation, and railroad buffs contend there could be more if the railroads promoted them.

Planners envision a need for rail passenger transport in the future, especially high-speed commuter service. Japan has had spectacular success with high-speed passenger trains between large cities.

In the United States there is likely to be increasing need for comfortable transportation on a regional basis. There has to be a limit to the proliferation of multi-lane super highways. Airports are already so congested that Congress is studying methods of straightening things out.

The congestion will get worse before it gets better. As life span increases, the number of aged Americans grows. Many of them cannot drive cars and some don't want to fly.

Wild Blue Costs

Most persons are aware defense costs are zooming, but figures released by the House Appropriations Committee which were presented in hearings on Defense Department procurement give a somewhat different picture of why costs are soaring than perhaps is popularly recognized.

It isn't the volume of war material which is causing defense costs to continue spiraling upward — it is the sophistication and resulting huge cost of individual pieces.

By comparison, the two workhorse aircraft of World War II, the B17 (used against Germany) and the B 29 (deployed against Japan) cost $190,000 and $635,000, respectively.

The latest rescue helicopter used in Vietnam costs $2.4 million, double the cost of its immediate predecessor. The controversial F-111 airplane, after astronomical development outlays, costs $8 million. One C5A, the world's largest aircraft designed to carry Army combat units and their equipment, costs $25 million.

The $11 million it now costs the Air Force merely to supply technical manuals for one type aircraft would have bought 200 World War II P51 fighter planes. Times have changed radically in a quarter century, but especially in the costs of defense.

Vast Defense Spending

There has been much criticism of the nation's defense posture in recent weeks, from strong criticism by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee of a possible superiority by the Soviet Union in tactical airpower to criticism by Sen. Symington and others that the United States is getting little new hardware for its multibillion dollar development expenditures.

Even with the Vietnam war costing an excess of $25 billion, it is difficult to explain what the nation is getting in meaningful defense systems for the current total military budget. Congress has passed a 72 billion budget for the Defense Dept. for fiscal 1969, down $5 billion from the sum requested by the department.

Of this total, $25.8 billion is earmarked for the war. The balance is for what is commonly referred to as the defense establishment. The nation's defense muscle must be lean and hard. A budget filled with fat and self-perpetuating obsolescence cannot do the job.

The 'Seismographic' Javits

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I don't suppose there is really a chance in a million that a Republican Senator Jacob Javits of New York State, who normally votes to the left of his party in Washington, will lose his bid to succeed himself this year. In upstate New York he calls himself a Republican, and that is enough for some people who don't look beneath the label. In New York City he says that anything the more leftist Democrats can do, he can do better. So he rides two strange steeds in successful tandem. Even so, he has exposed himself this year as a monumental sorehead, causing amoying trouble for the Nixon-Agnew national ticket that might have been avoided with no harm to his own candidacy.

Briefly, Javits is so sore at the very existence of the New York Conservative Party, which nominated James Buckley as its able and personable candidate for the U.S. Senate, that he served notice on Richard Nixon that the Javits-Rockefeller-Controlled Republican State Committee would not allow Nixon's Republican electors to go on the Conservatives' Row C polling booth line. The result is that Conservatives who wish to vote for Nixon for President and Buckley for Senator must split their ticket, which some dedicated souls are averse to doing. This could lose Nixon and Agnew a few votes without helping Jacob Javits in the least.

The ridiculous thing about it is that Javits is no principled enemy of three or multiple party politics. He gladly accepted both the Republican and Liberal Party Senatorial nominations, welcoming votes from people who will support Humphrey for President. As Murray Baron, the labor-management adviser who tried to wrest the Liberal Party Senatorial nomination from Javits, puts it, Javits is as "principled as a seismograph." It is a measure of the "new Nixon" that the Republican Presidential standard bearer dealt with the New York State "seismograph" in a most civilized way. He bowed to Javits without a fuss on the matter of the electors, meanwhile extracting a promise from the leaders of the Conservative Party that they would not run their own separate Nixon electors. This is a matter of some technical importance, for if the Nixon effort were to be divided between two sets of electors at the polls, the Democratic electors might be handed an undesired minority victory. But the "seismograph" that is Javits got his comeuppance the other night when Nixon sent Vice Presidential candidate Spiro Agnew to address the Conservative Party's big fund-raising dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Agnew followed Jim Buckley on a program that featured more than one speaker who had some sarcastic things to say about the "seismograph." Javits, whose own policies practically coincided with those of Democratic Senatorial nominee Paul O'Dwyer, was referred to rather contemptuously as "Jacob O'Dwyer."

Spiro Agnew gave the Conservatives a rousing speech on the limits of dissent, which he would put at the easily discernible boundary that separates lawful criticism from active civil disobedience. He had a big twenty-five dollar-a-plate audience laughing with him, not at him. It was no bumbler who satirized Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, the leaders of the Yippies, as "parasites" who expect a light to go on when you turn a switch or a car to run when you step on the starter, but who could no more make a light bulb, charge a battery or spot a car defect than the man in the moon. The New Left, said Agnew, gets its tactics from Fidel Castro and its money from Daddy.

Agnew gave some new flourishes to his basic law-and-order speech. But it was the setting that was something really new in New York State Republican politics. When the national head of the Republican ticket is most careful to legitimize a New York party whose avowed aim is to use its independence as a lever to force local Republican organizations to pick more conservative-to-moderate candidates, it means that conservatism has ceased to be a kook fringe even on the Eastern Seaboard.

Javits has expressed his specific displeasure at Agnew's appearance at the Conservatives' dinner. But he himself showed up, along with no less a person than Hubert Humphrey, at a big Liberal Party function at New York City's Hotel Americana. The "seismograph" works on a double standard.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Two friends of mine, both executives, complain that when they go to bed they see flashes of light for a minute or two before they go to sleep. Each admitted that he was afraid to tell his doctor because he might consider it a psychological problem. One of them is so anxious about it that it actually interferes with his sleep. Please write a column on this so that I can send copies of the article to them and help relieve their anxiety. I enjoy your articles and the warm, friendly way you bring information and comfort to your readers.

H. San Antonio, Texas

Dear H.: People of accomplishment in executive positions are just as afraid and fearful as are others in every field of activity and at all social and economical levels. The universal aspects of fear are recognized as a great leveler and must be treated with identical understanding if people are to be relieved of their depressing anxiety.

I am particularly interested in the fact that your friends are actually ashamed of discussing their problem with their doctor. I am sure many of my readers would say the same thing — all in the misguided impression that doctors either are poor listeners or tend to disparage "minor complaints."

I do not believe that there is anything like a "minor complaint." It is only after the cause of the complaint is found to be unimportant that the complaint may seem to have been minor. At the very time of the complaint, however, the combination of discomfort and the fear implied in it may very well make it a major one.

There is no basic rule that says that only cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis or a fractured leg must be given intensive consideration. Minor complaints need and deserve just as much consideration and perhaps more when they occur in the middle of the night when one is alone, fearful and does not want to disturb one's doctor for his reassurance.

Flashes of light that occur momentarily before going to bed may well be an after image due to staying at the light before turning it off. Dr. Walter S. Schachar, an eye specialist in New York City, gave me detailed information about the

Amish Boy Contracts Polio Case

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — The 3-year-old son of an Amish farmer is in the hospital with polio, the first such case in Ashland County in eight years.

Paul Troyer is hospitalized at Akron Childrens Hospital.

Dr. Hiram P. Petty, Ashland city and county health commissioner, said the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Menno J. Troyer, took him to a doctor because both legs became paralyzed during an illness.

The parents, who own a farm west of Ashland, said the youngster had not been inoculated for polio, but they since have consented to have their seven other children inoculated.

Dr. Petty said tests at Samaritan Hospital in Ashland indicated the boy had polio but the State Health Department has not officially diagnosed the disease.

A nurse at Childrens Hospital said the youngster is recovering and in good spirits. She said his legs are no longer paralyzed.

NEW YORK (AP) — The confident consumer of 1968, a liberal version of the cautious consumer of 1966 and 1967, might do well to take a few moments now to consider some of the worst of what lies ahead.

First, there's the increase in Social Security taxes to contend with beginning in January. It doesn't amount to much of an increase, $374.40 at maximum compared with $343.20 this year.

Still, its that much less in the pocket.

Second, there's a tax blow due on April 15. It's going to be a bit more severe than in other years because workers will have to make up for some deductions now made under the 10 per cent surcharge program.

Price inflation is expected to continue through much of 1968. During the summer it reached an annual rate of more than 5 per cent. This will take many months to recede.

If a 5 per cent rate did continue, it would mean that a worker with take-home pay of $8,000 a year would lose $300 directly from his pocket.

The slowdown policies of the administration, even if they fail to halt inflation, are bound to have some restraining impact on the economy.

The monetary policies of the Federal Reserve Board might very well become firmer in regard to the amount of money permitted to flow into the economy. Loans might become harder to get.

The 10 per cent income tax surcharge might be extended into the second half of 1969.

You might add also that the stock market isn't going to rise steadily in 1969 any more than in 1967 or 1968 or any other year. Recent hefty rises have given some investors a security that might evaporate at the next downturn.

There is little question, based on surveys and actions, that despite all this, many consumers have received a shot of adrenalin in recent weeks. The question with the mystery answer is this: Where did the encouragement come from?

The Sindlinger Co., a research organization, found that its confidence measurement reached the year's lowest during the third week of August and began a slow ascent through every week of September.

This study also tends to show that the best educated and most affluent are pulling in their necks a bit. It may be that they are the most realistic also. Maybe, but not certainly.

As Albert Sindlinger said a couple of days ago, "Businessmen are the first to get pessimistic and the last to become optimistic." It may be their nature rather than their foresight.

Dear Editor:

One of the truly interesting facets of the total school program is its system of pupil transportation. We sometimes seem to take for granted the fact that transportation is furnished and that it is an accepted part of the school's total responsibility. Unless one really takes the time to analyze all that is involved in the total operation of a bus fleet he would more than likely underestimate the magnitude of the financial demand and its impact upon the total budget.

I would sincerely hope that the public is more deeply interested in all that is involved than to merely accept the fact that an annual budget for this one phase of the program amounts to more than $8,000 — that it amounts to 8.5 per cent of the total school budget. One's first reaction would undoubtedly be that this is a tremendous sum of money to budget for pupil transportation alone; yet, the demand is there!

Beginning in July of 1964, records were initiated on all aspects of the transportation expenditures. Such expenditures are kept on each bus in order to yield a picture of individual unit costs. This enables the Board of Education to study annual performance patterns and to work for preventive maintenance and increased efficiency.

The Teays Valley School District has a total of 25 buses; all of these are owned by the school system. They range in age from 12 years old to new.

Naturally, the age of the bus has a vital bearing on the cost of the maintenance. The average bus is expected to give ten years of service. A replacement program is necessary to keep the fleet operating within efficient range. Certainly, the length of the routes, the total mileage, and the care of the bus, are all factors which determine the life of any given unit. The present fleet of buses range from virtually little mileage to well over 100,000 miles per unit.

In addition to the regular daily runs there are additional trips for music, athletics, educational field trips, etc. which means that, all in all, the fleet travels approximately 210,000 miles annually. The average bus travels over 8,000 miles per year.

With oil, parts, labor, gasoline, salaries, tires, insurance, and vehicle replacement, the average bus costs nearly $3,600 to operate. The fleet averages six miles per gallon in gasoline consumption. Figuring gasoline, oil, tires, insurance, and maintenance alone the bus fleet operates at approximately 12 cents per mile; adding to those costs salaries and new bus capital outlay an additional 31 cents per mile as required; thus, the total per mile cost amounts to 44 cents. This amounts to a daily cost of $493.40 to keep the fleet in operation.

Along with the fiscal responsibility comes the demand for safety on the part of the public, the Board of Education, the administration, and the drivers. The charge of over 2,000 students every day is a staggering responsibility, and our drivers are to be commended for their fine efforts. This last July our fleet was carefully inspected by the Ohio Highway Patrol, and the overriding comment was that, as a fleet, our buses were exceptionally well cared for.

This whole realm of fiscal responsibility is one of great magnitude, but of more value, is the body of students this operation serves. The costs are demanding on the public, but the monies are invested in the most valuable of society's possession — the children of our district.

Seek Stokes Case Shift

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — One of two Cuyahoga County Probate Court judges who disqualify himself in the malfeasance case against Mayor Carl B. Stokes said Monday a hearing on a change of venue may be held sometime next week.

Judge Frank M. Merrick said the request to change locations will be forwarded to Muskingum County Probate Judge Holland M. Gary of Zanesville, who is expected in Cleveland for the preliminary hearing.

The change of venue request was made by Roy F. Richards, who is trying to remove Stokes from office. He has charged the mayor with malfeasance and malfeasance in office in allegedly channelling "Cleveland: Now!" funds to Negro extremist groups.

Also, Richards has charged the mayor with identifying himself with militant Negro causes and withdrawing white police and National Guardsmen from the Glenville area during July disturbances.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

A Needed Service

A member of the Interstate Commerce Commission the other day urged the railroads to promote passenger service. There still are nearly 600 railroad passenger trains in operation, and railroad buffs contend there could be more if the railroads promoted them.

Planners envision a need for rail passenger transport in the future, especially high-speed commuter service. Japan has had spectacular success with high-speed passenger trains between large cities.

In the United States there is likely to be increasing need for comfortable transportation on a regional basis. There has to be a limit to the proliferation of multi-lane super highways. Airports are already so congested that Congress is studying methods of straightening things out.

The congestion will get worse before it gets better. As life span increases, the number of aged Americans grows. Many of them cannot drive cars and some don't want to fly.

Wild Blue Costs

Most persons are aware defense costs are zooming, but figures released by the House Appropriations Committee which were presented in hearings on Defense Department procurement give a somewhat different picture of why costs are soaring than perhaps is popularly recognized.

It isn't the volume of war material which is causing defense costs to continue spiraling upward — it is the sophistication and resulting huge cost of individual pieces.

By comparison, the two workhorse aircraft of World War II, the B17 (used against Germany) and the B 29 (deployed against Japan) cost $190,000 and $635,000, respectively.

The latest rescue helicopter used in Vietnam costs $2.4 million, double the cost of its immediate predecessor. The controversial F-111 airplane, after astronomical development outlays, costs $8 million. One C5A, the world's largest aircraft designed to carry Army combat units and their equipment, costs $25 million.

The $11 million it now costs the Air Force merely to supply technical manuals for one type aircraft would have bought 200 World War II P51 fighter planes. Times have changed radically in a quarter century, but especially in the costs of defense.

Vast Defense Spending

There has been much criticism of the nation's defense posture in recent weeks, from strong criticism by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee of a possible superiority by the Soviet Union in tactical airpower to criticism by Sen. Symington and others that the United States is getting little new hardware for its multibillion dollar development expenditures.

Even with the Vietnam war costing an excess of $25 billion, it is difficult to explain what the nation is getting in meaningful defense systems for the current total military budget. Congress has passed a 72 billion budget for the Defense Dept. for fiscal 1969, down $5 billion from the sum requested by the department.

Of this total, $25.8 billion is earmarked for the war. The balance is for what is commonly referred to as the defense establishment. The nation's defense muscle must be lean and hard. A budget filled with fat and self-perpetuating obsolescence cannot do the job.

The 'Seismographic' Javits

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I don't suppose there is really a chance in a million that a Republican Senator Jacob Javits of New York State, who normally votes to the left of his party in Washington, will lose his bid to succeed himself this year. In upstate New York he calls himself a Republican, and that is enough for some people who don't look beneath the label. In New York City he says that anything the more leftist Democrats can do, he can do better. So he rides two strange steeds in successful tandem. Even so, he has exposed himself this year as a monumental sorehead, causing smothering trouble for the Nixon-Agnew national ticket that might have been avoided with no harm to his own candidacy.

Briefly, Javits is so sore at the very existence of the New York Conservative Party, which nominated James Buckley as its able and personable candidate for the U.S. Senate, that he served notice on Richard Nixon that the Javits-Rockefeller-Controlled Republican State Committee would not allow Nixon's Republican electors to go on the Conservatives' Row C polling booth line. The result is that Conservatives who wish to vote for Nixon for President and Buckley for Senator must split their ticket, which some dedicated souls are averse to doing. This could lose Nixon and Agnew a few votes without helping Jacob Javits in the least.

The ridiculous thing about it is that Javits is no principled enemy of three or multiple party politics. He gladly accepted both the Republican and Liberal Party Senatorial nominations, welcoming votes from people who will support Humphrey for President. As Murray Baron, the labor-management adviser who tried to wrest the Liberal Party Senatorial nomination from Javits, puts it, Javits is as "principled as a seismograph." It is a measure of the "new Nixon" that the Republican Presidential standard bearer dealt with the New York State "seismograph" in a most civilized way. He bowed to Javits without a fuss on the matter of the electors, meanwhile extracting a promise from the leaders of the Conservative Party that they would not run their own separate Nixon electors. This is a matter of some technical importance, for if the Nixon effort were to be divided between two sets of electors at the polls, the Democratic electors might be handed an undesired minority victory. But the "seismograph" that Javits got his communique the other night when Nixon sent Vice Presidential candidate Spiro Agnew to address the Conservative Party's big fund-raising dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Agnew followed Jim Buckley on a program that featured more than one speaker who had sarcastic things to say about the "seismograph." Javits, whose own policies practically coincide with those of Democratic Senatorial nominee Paul O'Dwyer, was referred to rather contemptuously as "Jacob O'Dwyer."

Spiro Agnew gave the Conservatives a rousing speech on the limits of dissent, which he would put at the easily discernible boundary that separates lawful criticism from active civil disobedience. He had a big twenty-five dollar-a-plate audience laughing with him, not at him. It was no bumbler who satirized Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, the leaders of the Yippies, as "parasites" who expect a light to go on when you turn a switch or a car to run when you step on the starter, but who could no more make a light bulb, charge a battery or spot a car defect than the man in the moon. The New Left, said Agnew, gets its tactics from Fidel Castro and its money from Daddy.

Agnew gave some new flourishes to his basic law-and-order speech. But it was the setting that was something really new in New York State Republican politics. When the national head of the Republican ticket is most careful to legitimize a New York party whose avowed aim is to use its independence as a lever to force local Republican organizations to pick more conservative-to-moderate candidates, it means that conservatism has ceased to be a kook fringe even on the Eastern Seaboard. Javits has expressed his specific displeasure at Agnew's appearance at the Conservatives' dinner. But he himself showed up, along with no less a person than Hubert Humphrey, at a big Liberal Party function at New York City's Hotel Americana. The "seismograph" works on a double standard.

importance, or rather unimportance, of the occasional flashes you describe. The highly technical reasons would serve rather to confuse than to clarify. He said there is no doubt that there are important medical reasons for longstanding flashes of light due to changes within the eye ball and in the retina.

When a sudden flash, a film or wandering spots are seen regularly and disturbingly, there is only one mature thing to do. That is, to bring this complaint to the attention of the doctor and the eye specialist who can, with the brilliant instruments now available, rule out the possibility of any important underlying eye disorder. Your friends deserve to be given the assurance that the occasional flashes of light they see do not mean that their eyesight is threatened or that there is any significant progressive disease that will affect their destiny.

With oil, parts, labor, gasoline, salaries, tires, insurance, and vehicle replacement, the average bus costs nearly $3,600 to operate. The fleet averages six miles per gallon in gasoline consumption. Figuring gasoline, oil, tires, insurance, and maintenance alone the bus fleet operates at approximately 12 cents per mile; adding to those costs salaries and new bus capital outlay an additional 31 cents per mile as required; thus, the total per mile cost amounts to 44 cents. This amounts to a daily cost of $493.40 to keep the fleet in operation.

Along with the fiscal responsibility comes the demand for safety on the part of the public, the Board of Education, the administration, and the drivers. The charge of over 2,000 students every day is a staggering responsibility, and our drivers are to be commended for their fine efforts. This last July our fleet was carefully inspected by the Ohio Highway Patrol, and the overriding comment was that, as a fleet, our buses were exceptionally well cared for.

This whole realm of fiscal responsibility is one of great magnitude, but of more value, is the body of students this operation serves. The costs are demanding on the public, but the monies are invested in the most valuable of society's possession — the children of our district.

Seek Stokes Case Shift

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — One of two Cuyahoga County Probate Court judges who disqualified himself in the malfeasance case against Mayor Carl B. Stokes said Monday a hearing on a change of venue may be held sometime next week.

Judge Frank M. Merrick said the request to change locations will be forwarded to Muskingum County Probate Judge Holland M. Gary of Zanesville, who is expected in Cleveland for the preliminary hearing.

The change of venue request was made by Roy F. Richards, who is trying to remove Stokes from office. He has charged the mayor with misfeasance and malfeasance in office in allegedly channeling "Cleveland: Now!" funds to Negro extremist groups.

Also, Richards has charged the mayor with identifying himself with militant Negro causes and withdrawing white police and National Guardsmen from the Glenville area during July disturbances.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Does He Need Firm, Feminine Hand?

DEAR ABBY: My son (I'll call him "George") is 30 and has been under psychiatric treatment for some time. He is able to work and there is nothing wrong with him physically, but he's lazy. George is single and has never been married.

He complains of not having any friends. His mother and I can't do a thing with him. If we offer any suggestions, he flares up.

George is very good-looking, has a fine personality, can dance, play the piano and he has had 2 years of college.

Now, here's where you come in. Can you help me find a domineering gal who could motivate my son and get him functioning again? Thanks for any help you can give me.

DISTRESSED FATHER
DEAR ABBY: I don't know the nature of your son's problems but it's pretty good guess that he lacks confidence in himself as a result of having a father who would like to provide all the answers, serve as a "buffer," and practically live his son's life for him. Since George is seeing a psychiatrist, don't interfere. Perhaps the LAST thing your son needs is a "domineering gal" to take over where a domineering father left off.

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter-in-law, and I love her dearly. She has three children under 6 years old. She is a lovely person, but she's the world's worst housekeeper. She doesn't get up when the children do, so they pull out drawers, wreck the closets, and climb on the furniture. I am afraid something terrible will happen to them while she's sleeping.

She has an automatic washer and dryer, but she has no routine. She buys plenty of clothes for the kiddies, but they never have anything to wear.

She keeps her shades drawn all day, which isn't good for the children's eyes. I don't know what she does at night, but she sleeps most of the day. My son travels a lot for his business, so he probably doesn't know how much of this goes on. What shall I do? I hate to tell my son. It would worry him to death.

GREEN BAY
DEAR GREEN BAY: Tell your son, and don't worry about "worrying" him. Something is wrong with this woman. She could be either sick or drinking. Or both.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a situation that most guys would not consider a problem—they would probably be relieved, but it's a problem to me.

I have been dating this wonderful girl for about a year now. I love her very much, and she claims to love me, but listen to this:

Last week her roommate told me that my girl was pregnant, so I went to her immediately told her I knew, and wanted to marry her. She turned me down! She said that her having a baby was a poor reason to get married—that she doesn't ever want me to feel that I HAD to marry her!

She wants to stop seeing me until after she has the baby, then she says if I still want to marry her she will marry me.

In the meantime she wants to continue to work, and she doesn't intend to "hide" anything. What do you say?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: I say I think your girl is a bit too lofty to be on the level.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "BURNED." The bride and groom who were married because the bride called off the wedding 4 days before it was to have taken place, after all the bridesmaids had already "forked out" money for their gowns.

Miss Burned is indeed the most selfish person who has ever written to you. Instead of thinking of her own pocketbook, why didn't she consider the bride-to-be? Did it ever occur to her that the poor girl probably suffered many sleepless nights before she finally gathered the courage to call the wedding off?

Three years ago, I was a bridesmaid for a girl who went thru with the wedding (with doubts in her mind) because she didn't have the courage to call it off. The marriage lasted only 3 months. I would have been much happier today knowing I was out $40, and that a certain young divorcee was either single or happily married to someone else. Sign this—

Pleads Innocent In Cincinnati Narcotic Haul

CINCINNATI (AP)—Albert L. Lederer, 22, pleaded innocent before Hamilton County Municipal Court Judge Bernard Gilday Jr. Monday of two charges arising from one of the largest narcotics hauls in the city's history.

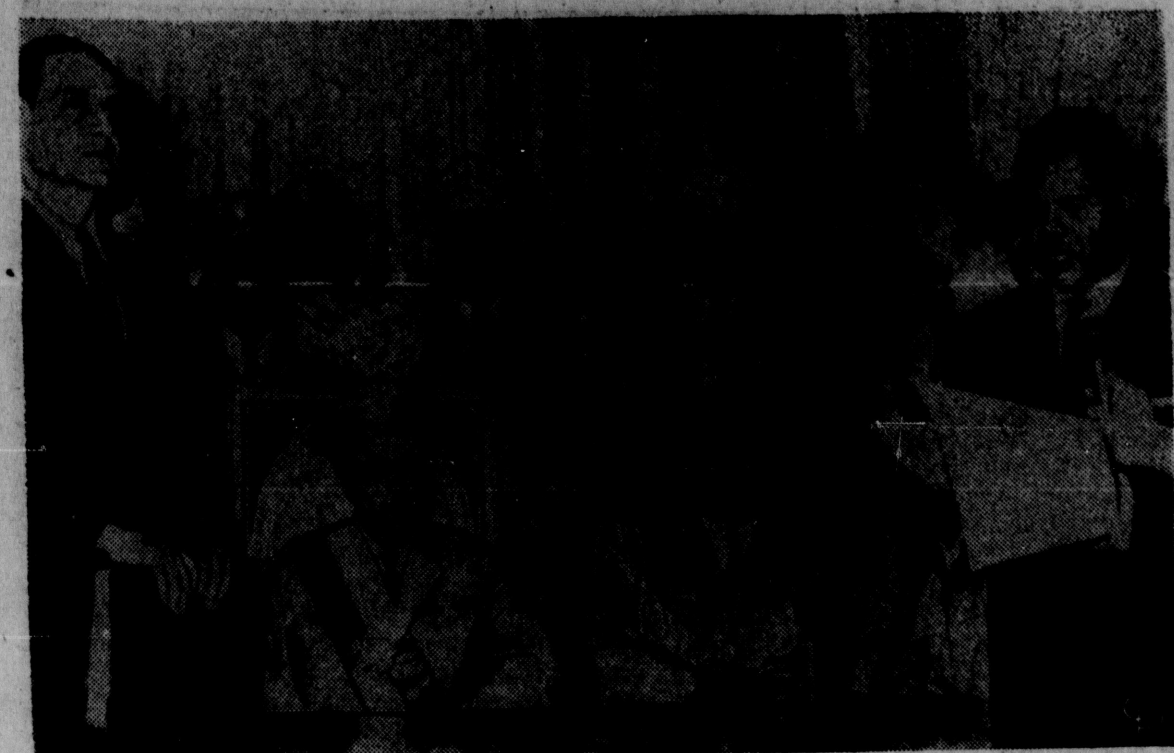

Bond on the psychology student at the University of Cincinnati was reduced from $25,000 to $5,000—largely because an investigation showed no previous arrest record.

Charges of narcotics possession and possession for sale were lodged against Lederer shortly after he was found removing 62 two-pound packets of marijuana—valued at more than $250,000—from a large statue of an animal inside a closed van truck, officers said.

Patrolmen said they made the discovery Sept. 26 when they investigated noises coming from the rear of the truck parked in Mount Storm Park.

Top 10 programs were, in order: NBC's Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In, CBS's Mayberry R.F.D., NBC's Julia, CBS's Gomer Pyle and Family Affair, NBC's Bonanza, CBS's Here's Lucy, movie rerun "Glass Bottom Boat and Beverly Hillsbillies and NBC's Ironside.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Spain about which Ernest Hemingway wrote romantically and hauntingly was shown with perception and great beauty in ABC's special program Monday night.

A travelogue, perhaps, but it was disguised handsomely by the technique of quoting descriptive passages while the camera's eye traveled the mountain, village street or vista as if seen by the author as he wrote.

With Jason Robards setting the scenes from Hemingway's books and with Rod Steiger reading the prose warmly, the program often had a poetic quality.

First—and typical of the whole—there was the story of the hero's death blowing up the bridge in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." We saw the bridge and the trees, serene in summer sunlight as Steiger's quiet voice told the story of men and death in civil war.

Through all the hour, Hemingway's—and Spain's—preoccupation with death ran like a major theme. And, since bull fighting was Hemingway's passion and the subject of some of his most vivid writing, much of the program focused on the animals.

Although the narrator explained that it was not a sport but an enactment of a tragedy and although the camera showed the grace and daring of a celebrated matador, a bull ring sequence climaxed by the killing of a bleeding, bewildered animal was an unpleasant experience for some viewers.

The quiet parts—when there was beautiful camera work to see and some of Hemingway's best prose being read—were the best.

Earlier, NBC showed a half-hour animated version of the "Babar the Elephant" stories, narrated by Peter Ustinov who used a wide variety of voices and accents.

This was strictly for the very young viewers, a simple, imaginative animal story. The animation, while rather primitive, were carbons of the drawings in the original De Brunhoff books.

NBC moved into a slim lead in the Nielsen ratings race in a report on programs shown between Oct. 7 and 13. NBC built up a rating of 19.1, with CBS—a head in earlier weeks—second with 18.5, and ABC, 15.2.

Top 10 programs were, in order: NBC's Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In, CBS's Mayberry R.F.D., NBC's Julia, CBS's Gomer Pyle and Family Affair, NBC's Bonanza, CBS's Here's Lucy, movie rerun "Glass Bottom Boat and Beverly Hillsbillies and NBC's Ironside.

Loretta Young And Husband Split Assets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Loretta Young and her estranged husband, producer Thomas H.A. Lewis, will divide more than $1 million in assets.

They agreed to the compromise settlement Monday, apparently ending a 10-year court fight involving the J.C.P. Corp., which produced 103 films for "The Loretta Young Show" on television.

Lewis and Miss Young, married in 1940, have lived apart approximately 12 years.

Under terms of the court-approved agreement, each will take title to one of two apartment houses jointly held and each will contribute equally toward payment of $125,000 in corporate taxes owed by J.C.P.

2 Stamps Sold For $380,000

NEW YORK (AP) — An envelope bearing two orange one-penny stamps from the former British colony of Mauritius have been sold to a dealer for $380,000 — the highest price ever paid for a single item at a philatelic auction.

The cover bearing the two stamps issued in 1847 from the Indiana Ocean colony was one of 147 lots sold Monday night from the collection of the late Louise Boyd Dale. Under the terms of her will the proceeds—$595,147—went to Vassar College.

Roger G. Weill of the Raymond H. Weill Co., a New Orleans stamp dealer, entered the winning bid.

NEW YORK (AP) — The name of the National Citizens Committee for Public Broadcasting has been changed to National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting. The committee said it wanted to reflect its decision to act as a critic of commercial television as well as to function as a promotional arm of educational TV.

Favor Sen. Frank Church To Win Idaho Re-Election

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — An Idaho Democrat generally classified among the doves on Vietnam is in a tight fight to retain his seat in the U.S. Senate.

But Sen. Frank Church, at age 44 seeking his third six-year term, is seen as the likely winner over his Republican challenger, Rep. George V. Hansen.

Hansen, 38, gave up what most political observers regarded as certain re-election to Congress to challenge Church.

In contrast to Church's dovish label, Hansen generally is rated a hawk on Vietnam.

However, both Church and Hansen say it was a mistake to send American troops to Vietnam in the first place.

Hansen criticizes conduct of the war now, asserting that this nation has set up sanctuaries which threaten the security of American troops in Vietnam. He says military commanders should be free to use all the facilities they have against whatever targets they wish.

Church says he favors gradual withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, with the task of fighting North Vietnam.

Church says his concern over foreign policy goes beyond Vietnam.

"I do not propose swinging the pendulum back to ostrich-like isolationism," he says.

"Rather, we should seek out the rational middle ground, where the limits of our intervention abroad correspond more closely with the limits of our resources, and where we reserve direct military measures for those occasions that clearly pose an actual threat to the security of the American people."

Church was elected to the Senate at age 32. He was the first Democratic senator in Idaho's history to win re-election to a second term.

He is an attorney and practiced law in Boise prior to his election to the Senate.

Hansen has served two terms in the House. He was in the insurance business in Pocatello prior to his election.

Crushed Fennel Seeds Rise To Flavor Heights

By ALICE DENHOFF

American homemakers who have not yet learned to add a bit of fennel seed to whatever is cooking have a happy culinary discovery waiting. Fennel seeds are yellowish-brown, about 1/4-inch long, and, as can be seen when magnified, have the shape and light and dark stripes of a watermelon. The taste is not unlike anise or licorice.

Whole fennel seed is sold nationally, and it is also possible to find ground fennel seed in some spice lines.

Because of its delicately good flavor, fennel can be used generously. When the recipe calls for fennel seeds, measure out the whole ones on wax paper; cover with a second sheet of wax paper and crush them as much as possible with the rolling pin. Or, crush with a mortar and pestle. If you have a blender, add the seeds to a little liquid and use high speed for a few seconds.

There is nothing new about fennel. It grew in the gardens of the King of Babylon 3,000 years ago. Roman gladiators ate fennel because it supposedly rendered them strong and fierce. We fiercely hope you'll try:

Makes Eating With FALSE TEETH Up to 35% Easier

Clinical tests prove you can now eat and chew better—make dentures average up to 35% more effective—if you sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds uppers and lowers more firmly so they feel more comfortable. FASTEETH is not acid—doesn't sour. No gummy, pasty taste. Helps check "denture odor." Dentures that fit are essential to health. So see your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Crushed Fennel Seeds Rise To Flavor Heights

By ALICE DENHOFF

American homemakers who have not yet learned to add a bit of fennel seed to whatever is cooking have a happy culinary discovery waiting. Fennel seeds are yellowish-brown, about 1/4-inch long, and, as can be seen when magnified, have the shape and light and dark stripes of a watermelon. The taste is not unlike anise or licorice.

Whole fennel seed is sold nationally, and it is also possible to find ground fennel seed in some spice lines.

Generous Use
Because of its delicately good flavor, fennel can be used generously. When the recipe calls for fennel seeds, measure out the whole ones on wax paper; cover with a second sheet of wax paper and crush them as much as possible with the rolling pin. Or, crush with a mortar and pestle. If you have a blender, add the seeds to a little liquid and use high speed for a few seconds.

There is nothing new about fennel. It grew in the gardens of the King of Babylon 3,000 years ago. Roman gladiators ate fennel because it supposedly rendered them strong and fierce. We fiercely hope you'll try.

Election Day Disturbances Said Possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State authorities say they are prepared for election day disturbances if any occur.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and Adj. S. T. Del Corso both said Monday they have heard rumors of possible disturbances by a college campus-oriented group often associated with militancy and demonstrations.

Del Corso said his office will be alerted to the situation but he has no plans to call up National Guardsmen Nov. 5.

A spokesman in Brown's office said one possible demonstration tactic would be a sit-down in the polls. He said Ohio law permits only five minutes in the booths and a deliberate stall will not be tolerated.

Jackie's Children Leave For Home; Yacht Still Tied

ATHENS (AP) — Caroline and John Kennedy headed back to New York and school today, but bad weather still kept their mother's honeymoon yacht tied alongside their new Greek stepfather's island.

Where the newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Socrates Onassis were headed was their secret. The storm that raged through their wedding Sunday on Scorpio Island kept up through Monday and into Tuesday.

The wedding guests flew to Athens Monday. In addition to 10-year-old Caroline and 7-year-old John, the Radziwills also were accompanied by their young son and daughter. The homeward-bound group also included the only adult members of the Kennedy family who attended the wedding, two of the late President's sisters, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Peter Lawford.

Also among those departing was the U.S. Secret Service man who had accompanied Mrs. Kennedy to Greece but to whose protection she is no longer entitled since her second marriage.

At the Vatican, an official comment was made on the wedding of the Roman Catholic Mrs. Onassis to a divorced member of the Greek Orthodox Church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fausto Vallam, the Vatican's press spokesman, declared:

"Jacqueline Kennedy has reached the age of reason—that is, to be able to know what she wants. She knew at the moment of her marriage with Onassis what the Catholic Church's law was on marriage with a divorced man."

The church's canon law forbids such marriages to Roman Catholics under penalty of excommunication from the church.

Columbus Police Seek Men In Slaying Of 2 Teen-Agers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus homicide detectives said Monday night they are seeking two men for questioning in the brutal slaying Sunday night of two teen-agers in a dairy store here.

They refused further comment on the slayer who, apparently working alone, during a holdup killed the teen-agers and left the night manager for dead.

Police said Susan Pack, 18, a clerk at the Lawson's Dairy Store, and James Stevens, 14, were shot in the head at close range at least once each. Stevens was at first thought to have been a Lawson employee but a company spokesman said Monday the youth was not on the payroll.

The night manager, Phyllis Crow, 34, was choked with a coat hanger but escaped with bruises. All three were bound, gagged and beaten. A detective said the beatings administered to the teen-agers were the most brutal he had seen.

Police said the man escaped with about $800 in cash and checks from a cash register. Mrs. Crow gave police a description of the man and a police sketch has been circulated throughout the state.

Mrs. Crow told police she had seen the man in the store before. She said he entered the store shortly before closing time Sunday, forced her to help him rifle the cash register then ordered all three to lie on the floor behind a counter.

Summit County Workers Strike

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Union leaders have threatened that Summit County workers will continue a sick-call strike until a dispute over hospitalization insurance payments is settled.

More than 250 members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees' Union were off the job Monday.

The union says the county commissioners promised paid hospitalization for all county employees but County Auditor C. L. Bower has refused to approve the method of payment.

Bower says funds are not available for the payments next year, even though the county could afford the new expenditure this year.

Columbus Police Seek Men In Slaying Of 2 Teen-Agers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus homicide detectives said Monday night they are seeking two men for questioning in the brutal slaying Sunday night of two teen-agers in a dairy store here.

They refused further comment on the slayer who, apparently working alone, during a holdup killed the teen-agers and left the night manager for dead.

Police said Susan Pack, 18, a clerk at the Lawson's Dairy Store, and James Stevens, 14, were shot in the head at close range at least once each. Stevens was at first thought to have been a Lawson employee but a company spokesman said Monday the youth was not on the payroll.

The night manager, Phyllis Crow, 34, was choked with a coat hanger but escaped with bruises. All three were bound, gagged and beaten. A detective said the beatings administered to the teen-agers were the most brutal he had seen.

Police said the man escaped with about $800 in cash and checks from a cash register. Mrs. Crow gave police a description of the man and a police sketch has been circulated throughout the state.

Mrs. Crow told police she had seen the man in the store before. She said he entered the store shortly before closing time Sunday, forced her to help him rifle the cash register then ordered all three to lie on the floor behind a counter.

New Presidential Limousine Replaces Assassination Car

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long, black, glass-roofed limousine, with the latest in bomb and bullet proofing features, rolled into the White House grounds Monday to be the new presidential limousine for parades and ceremonies.

This is the latest in a line of specially built Lincoln Continentals, and reports from Detroit have put the cost at around $500,000.

It has such useful gadgets as: —A public address system the President can use to speak to crowds outside, and a sound system to bring inside the reactions from crowds while the windows remain closed.

—Separate heating and air conditioning units for the front and rear compartments.

—Twin two-way radio and telephone communications systems.

—A section of the roof which can be opened so the President can stand upright as he rides along.

The Ford Motor Company's Lincoln-Mercury division said in a statement that: "The new presidential limousine has more advanced security, communications and engineering features than any automobile used for official duties at the White House."

The new limousine replaces a 1961 version which traveled more than a million miles by air and 50,000 by road in the service of Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. The old car, which was remade in the interest of greater security after the Kennedy assassination, is still rated in excellent shape and will stay in the White House fleet.

Juvenile Judge Sues Commission For More Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Juvenile Judge Robert Foster has filed suit in the Ohio Supreme Court seeking restoration of $314,172 slashed from the Family Court Center in Toledo.

The high court was to hear arguments in the suit Wednesday.

The commissioners contend the center should have kept its operations within the budget and that money is not available.

Shoshones In War Paint Run Deer Hunters Off Land

WINNEMUCCA, Nev. (AP) — Shoshone Indians, in full war paint and carrying rifles, are creeping up on white hunters and ordering them off the reservation.

"They looked up and saw us, and that was enough," said John Pope, an Indian also known as "Rolling Thunder," as he described one "raid" Monday. "One man's mouth was moving but nothing came out. I gave them 15 minutes to get off the reservation. They made it."

Pope, a spokesman for the Shoshones, claimed the white hunters "are wasting deer while our people go hungry."

The Shoshones, led by Chief Frank Temoke, began the scare technique last week. Pope said five groups of white hunters have been run off the reservation—in the Ruby Valley near Elko.

Pope was here with Stanley Smart, an Indian convicted Oct. 11 and fined $100 for hunting and possession of deer out of season.

Smart filed an appeal Monday, contending that as an Indian he has the right to hunt regardless of seasons set by the white man, on or off the reservation. State game protectors said Smart was not on the reservation when arrested.

Pope said the Indians intend to keep white hunters off the reservation. He declined to say how many Indians were in the "scare party," but said their rifles were unloaded.

"We intend to close all of the eastern Nevada reservation land to white hunters and fishermen," said Pope. "We're not making threats to anyone. We believe in law and we believe in justice. We only want to gather food for our people."

Indonesians On Rampage After Singapore Hangings

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Two thousand Indonesian marines and students rampaged through the Chinese quarter of Surabaya, burning and smashing shops and houses for five hours Monday before army troops evicted them, western diplomats reported today.

Military authorities imposed a dusk to dawn curfew on the tense capital of East Java. There was no official casualty report, but one newspaper said many Chinese were injured.

The Surabaya outbreak followed two days of violent demonstrations in Jakarta, protesting the hanging of two Indonesian marines in Singapore. Because Singapore's population is largely Chinese, the mobs vented their anger on Indonesian Chinese.

In Jakarta, troops moved back into the Chinese quarters of Glodok and Pasar Baru to prevent similar demonstrations there.

The hanged marines, now national heroes, were convicted of planting a bomb in downtown Singapore three years ago during Indonesia's war against Singapore and Malaysia.

Upper Arlington Newark Catholic Lead Grid Polls

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Defending champion Upper Arlington clung to first place in the weekly Associated Press high school football ratings today but onrushing Mentor crept within eight points of the leader.

The unbeaten Bears, boasting a 7-0 record, collected 150 points from the sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll. Mentor, which has allowed only one touchdown in seven victories, is applying the pressure.

And still in hot pursuit in third place on 123 points is once-beaten Massillon, 6-1.

Warren Western Reserve, which only broke into the elite circle last week, moved up a notch to fourth after an impressive 40-8 romp over tough Niles McKinley.

Elyria, despite a solid 27-6 triumph over Sandusky, slipped to fifth place.

Shelby is sixth, followed by Cincinnati St. Xavier, Struthers, Canton McKinley and Winterville.

Canton McKinley, beaten only by Niles, is 6-1 and Struthers is 6-0 while all the others are 7-0. Canton and Winterville replaced Niles and Kettering after which dropped out after losing last weekend.

Newark Catholic tightened its grip on first place in the Class A rankings, piling up 125 points, 16 more than second-ranked Norwalk St. Paul.

Cory-Rawson is a close third on 105 points while West Jefferson is fourth. The Plains (Mount Sterling) jumped all the way from ninth to No. 5 and West Muskingum is in sixth place.

Portsmouth Notre Dame, the early poll leader slipped two notches to seventh despite a 60-0 whipping of Minford.

Mechanicsburg was eighth, Lorain St. Mary ninth and Newcomerstown, breaking into the charmed group for the first time No. 10.

Here's the way the teams are rated in the weekly Associated Press high school football poll (points on a 10, 9, 8, etc. basis):

U.S. Olympic Cage Team Faces Brazil

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The U.S. basketball team, a pick-up squad spurned by many of the nation's top collegiate stars, faces perhaps its toughest Olympic test tonight against Brazil.

The Americans haven't lost a game since the sport was introduced into the Games in 1932, but Coach Henry Iba is worried—severely so—about his semifinal match.

"If we handle the ball the way we did against Puerto Rico, we will lose," Iba said.

"Brazil is a strong, fast team."

The Yankee team, lacking such stars as Lew Alcindor and Elvin Hayes, just got by tiny Puerto Rico 61-56 in its last outing.

And while Iba was worrying, tall Lynn McClements of Australia found out that America's swimmers are human after all.

"When I came to Mexico, I was very frightened of the American swimmers," said the 17-year-old secretary from

Perth. "But when I saw them, I found they were human beings just like myself."

So she promptly broke the American stranglehold on swimming gold medals Monday, winning the women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:05.5. She was followed, naturally enough, by two Americans who, while human, continue to dominate these 19th Games.

The United States picked up 11 more medals, including four golds, and now leads the massive Russian forces by its widest margin so far.

The Americans have a total of 64 medals, 28 of them gold. The Russians have only 39, 13 of them gold. They picked up only two golds Monday, in team saber and Finn dinghy sailing.

Russia's track and field coach, Gabriel Korobkov, had some words to say about it: "It is unfair to hold the Games at this altitude," he said of this 1½ mile high city. "Most of the world lives downstairs. They hold the Olympics upstairs. The Games are thrown out of balance."

Russia's track and field coach, Gabriel Korobkov, had some words to say about it: "It is unfair to hold the Games at this altitude," he said of this 1½ mile high city. "Most of the world lives downstairs. They hold the Olympics upstairs. The Games are thrown out of balance."

Spitz already has two golds for relays, a silver in the butterfly and a bronze for the 100-meter butterfly, for which he holds the world record, Thursday.

Just 42 minutes after losing to Russell, he swam the third leg on the United States' victorious 800-meter freestyle relay team, giving Schollander a lead of about 2½ meters.

Schollander held most of it against an Australian challenge. Russia was a distant third. The winning time was 7:52.3.

Ellie Daniels, Elkins Park, Pa., and Sue Shields, Louisville, Ky., were second and third behind Miss McClements' winning 1:05.5 in the women's butterfly.

Of the three finals on today's schedule, the United States, strangely is the underdog to take the gold—in the men's 100-meter backstroke and the men's 200-meter breaststroke, but figure to pick up some seconds and thirds.

In the other, Debbie Meyer, Sacramento, Calif., goes for her second gold in the 200-meter freestyle, in which she holds the world record. With Jane Barkman, Wayne, Pa., and Jen Henne, Oakland, Calif., also entered, it could be another American sweep.

Buddy Friedrichs of New Orleans, La., in the Dragon class in Willawaw, and Lowell North of San Diego, with crewman Peter Barrett of Seal Beach, Calif., in the Star class with North Star, confirmed their yachting victories that they had clinched the day before.

The United States also picked up a silver in shooting from Lt. John Writer, stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., in the small bore rifle, with 1,156 of a possible 1,200.

The event was won by Bernd Klinger of West Germany with 1,157, and Russian Vitaly Parkhovich third.

Another silver came in team equestrian, won by Great Britain with Australia third.

There were a couple of controversies. The Russian equestrian team was found to be using walkie talkies and disqualified. But they were reinstated when they pointed out an interpreter was not present at the briefings.

But in team pursuit cycling, West Germany, first across the finish line, was disqualified when the jury ruled that Jürgen Kissner pushed teammate Karl-Heinz Henrichs, an illegal action.

Denmark, which finished second, was awarded the gold medal and Italy the bronze. A decision on the silver medal will be made later.

Oaks And Bullets Win Cage Clashes
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Oaks remain unbeaten in American Basketball Association play today while the Seattle Super Sonics still are looking for their first National Basketball Association victory.

The Oaks whipped the host New Orleans Buccaneers 137-129 in the only ABA game scheduled Monday night for their third straight triumph.

The Sonics, meanwhile, absorbed their fourth consecutive setback, bowing to the Baltimore Bullets 111-104 in Vancouver, B.C., in the only NBA game played.

Jack as the outstanding offensive lineman in the Northwestern game and Kern as the top back. He said there was no top lineman or back on defense.

"Our defense wasn't very sharp against Northwestern. We were a bit banged up from Purdue."

The No. 2 ranked Buckeyes finally hit the road after four straight victories at home and Illinois should be victim No. 5.

The Illini, 0-5, have lost to Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Minnesota and Notre Dame.

"We always feel Illinois does a much better job against Big Ten opponents," said assistant coach Esco Sarkkinen. The Illini lost to Indiana, 28-14, and to Minnesota, 17-10, but have beaten the Bucks two straight years.

Ohio, which has outscored its foes 114-41, should have too much of everything against the injury-riddled Illini, who have scored only 39 points and yielded 194.

Hayes Again Blasts Tactics Used To 'Get Quarterback'

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—No one could really guess that Woody Hayes was about to explode.

"It's another beautiful autumn day . . . great for practice. I wouldn't want to miss it," the Ohio State football coach told his weekly luncheon Monday.

But before the writers and sportscasters had digested their dessert, Hayes fired his second salvo of the year at linemen who go out of their way to rough up passers.

"I'm outright disgusted on what they do to passers. I'm not only talking about games here," Woody said.

"I'm fed up. Too many coaches think that the way to stop the option is to put the quarterback out of business. This has no place in football. There has got to be protection for the passers."

Ohio State Pushes Southern Cal In Grid Polls

By MIKE BRYSON

Explosive Ohio State shaved Southern California's lead to 16 points today in The Associated Press' major college football poll.

The Trojans, who needed some last-quarter heroics by fabulous O. J. Simpson to subdue lowly Washington 14-7 over the weekend, held a 21-15 edge over Ohio State in first place votes.

But the Buckeyes, 4-0 after routing Northwestern 45-21, used strong second and third ballot strength to amass 784 points to Southern Cal's even 800.

Last week, when the defending national champs took over the top spot for the first time this season, they held a 46-point

U.S. Olympic Cage Team Faces Brazil

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The U.S. basketball team, a pick-up squad spurred by many of the nation's top collegiate stars, faces perhaps its toughest Olympic test tonight against Brazil.

The Americans haven't lost a game since the sport was introduced into the Games in 1932, but Coach Henry Iba is worried—severely so—about his semifinal match.

"If we handle the ball the way we did against Puerto Rico, we will lose," Iba said.

"When I came to Mexico, I was very frightened of the American swimmers," said the 17-year-old secretary from

Perth. "But when I saw them, I found they were human beings just like myself."

So she promptly broke the American stranglehold on swimming gold medals Monday, winning the women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:05.5. She was followed, naturally enough, by two Americans who, while human, continue to dominate these 19th Games.

Russia's track and field coach, Gabriel Korobkov, had some words to say about it:

"It is unfair to hold the Games at this altitude," he said of this 1 1/2 mile high city. "Most of the world lives downstairs. They hold the Olympics upstairs. The Games are thrown out of balance."

A few weeks ago, Haywood, a 6-foot-8 stringbean from Detroit, was virtually unknown. Today he is regarded as the spark that probably will ignite the American team to its eighth straight Olympic gold medal without loss of a game.

He has averaged more than 20 points a game. He is leading the team in rebounding. His clever ball-handling, Houdini-like faking and moves have made him the standout of the American ragamuffins.

The Americans begin the final round of the Olympic round robin tonight, playing the strong Brazilian team at 9:30 p.m., CST (11:30 p.m., EDT) in a game that will be televised in the United States by ABC. The Soviet Union, like the Americans unbeaten in the tournament, play Yugoslavia in an earlier game.

"Brazil is tough," said Iba. "We could lose if we don't handle the ball better than we did against Puerto Rico."

The United States edged Puerto Rico, coached by New York University's Lou Rossini, 61-56.

If both Russia and the United States win, they clash in the championship game Friday.

"Now that I've got my first gold medal, I'm more relaxed," said Debbie. "I should be faster."

The California blonde holds world freestyle records of 2:06.7 for 200 meters, 4:24.5 for 400 and 9:10.4 for 800. She won the 400 in Olympic record time of 4:31.8 and led the 200-meter qualifiers in 2:13.1, an Olympic record since this is a new event for the Games.

With Debbie the pace-setter, the Yanks could rack up their fifth 1-2-3 sweep in the Olympic pool. Jane Barkman of Wayne, Pa., (2:13.6) and Jan Henne of Oakland, Calif., (2:13.8) were second and third in the qualifying Monday.

There are two other finals on tonight's program. Although the U.S.A. is the underdog in both—the men's 100 backstroke and the men's 200 breaststroke—the talented Yanks could pick up another stack of medals.

But the Buckeyes, 4-0 after routing Northwestern 45-21, used strong second and third ball strength to amass 784 points to Southern Cal's even 800.

freestyle, in which she holds the world record. With Jane Barkman, Wayne, Pa., and Jan Henne, Oakland, Calif., also entered, it could be another American sweep.

Buddy Friedrichs of New Orleans, La., in the Dragon class in Willawaw, and Lowell North of San Diego, with crewman Peter Barrett of Seal Beach, Calif., in the Star class with North Star, confirmed their yachting victories that they had clinched the day before.

The United States also picked up a silver in shooting from Lt. John Writer, stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., in the small bore rifle, with 1,156 of a possible 1,200.

The event was won by Bernd Klinger of West Germany with 1,157, and Russian Vitaly Parkhovich third.

Another silver came in team equestrian, won by Great Britain with Australia third.

There were a couple of controversies. The Russian equestrian team was found to be using walkie talkies and disqualified. But they were reinstated when they pointed out an interpreter was not present at the briefings.

But in team pursuit cycling, West Germany, first across the finish line, was disqualified when the jury ruled that Jurgen Kisser pushed teammate Karl-Heinz Henrichs, an illegal action.

Demmark, which finished second, was awarded the gold medal and Italy the bronze. A decision on the silver medal will be made later.

Oaks And Bullets Win Cage Clashes
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Oaks remain unbeaten in American Basketball Association play today while the Seattle Super Sonics still are looking for their first National Basketball Association victory.

The Oaks whipped the host New Orleans Buccaneers 137-129 in the only ABA game scheduled Monday night for their third straight triumph.

The Sonics, meanwhile, absorbed their fourth consecutive setback, bowing to the Baltimore Bullets 111-104 in Vancouver, B.C., in the only NBA game played.

Hayes Again Blasts Tactics Used To 'Get Quarterback'

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—No one could really guess that Woody Hayes was about to explode.

"It's another beautiful autumn day . . . great for practice. I wouldn't want to miss it," the Ohio State football coach told his weekly luncheon Monday.

But before the writers and sportscasters had digested their dessert, Hayes fired his second salvo of the year at linemen who go out of their way to rough up passers.

"I'm outright disgusted on what they do to passers. I'm not only talking about games here," Woody said.

"I'm fed up. Too many coaches think that the way to stop the option is to put the quarterback out of business. This has no place in football. There has got to be protection for the passers."

Two weeks ago, Hayes said it was "open season on quarterbacks" after Rex Kern suffered a jaw injury, first believed to be a fracture.

Kern was hurt again in Ohio State's 45-21 victory over Northwestern.

"He's got a sore jaw. He's been lucky, though. One of these days it's going to be shattered," Hayes said he had protested to Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed and sent a film clip along to support his case.

"Nobody can tell me a man can't ease up. Kern has been decked every game. This is getting out of hand."

Hayes suggested some harsh consequences for a defensive player who deliberately hits a passer after he has released the ball.

"I'd kick him out of the game and if he committed the violation twice, he'd be out for the season. And I'd suspend the coach for a week."

Hayes singled out guard Alan

Jack as the outstanding offensive lineman in the Northwestern game and Kern as the top back. He said there was no top lineman or back on defense.

"Our defense wasn't very sharp against Northwestern. We were a bit banged up from Purdue."

The No. 2 ranked Buckeyes finally hit the road after four straight victories at home and Illinois should be victim No. 5.

The Illini, 0-5, have lost to Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Minnesota and Notre Dame.

"We always feel Illinois does a much better job against Big Ten opponents," said assistant coach Esco Sarkkinen. The Illini lost to Indiana, 28-14, and to Minnesota, 17-10, but have beaten the Bucks two straight years.

Ohio, which has outscored its foes 114-41, should have too much of everything against the injury-riddled Illini, who have scored only 39 points and yielded 194.

Ohio State Pushes Southern Cal In Grid Polls

By MIKE BRYSON

Explosive Ohio State shaved Southern California's lead to 16 points today in The Associated Press' major college football poll.

The Trojans, who needed some last-quarter heroics by fabulous O. J. Simpson to subdue lowly Washington 14-7 over the weekend, held a 21-15 edge over Ohio State in first place votes.

But the Buckeyes, 4-0 after routing Northwestern 45-21, used strong second and third ball strength to amass 784 points to Southern Cal's even 800.

Last week, when the defending national champs took over the top spot for the first time this season, they held a 46-point edge over Ohio State.

Meanwhile, the rest of the top 10 underwent some minor shuffling as Kansas moved into third place, trading spots with Idaho No. 4 Penn State.

The Jayhawks, 5-0 after trouncing Oklahoma State 49-14, were named first on five ballots, while Penn State, 4-0, drew one top vote.

Notre Dame, 4-1, advanced from sixth to fifth after humiliating Illinois 58-8. Tennessee, 4-0-1, moved from eighth to sixth after nipping Alabama 10-9.

Purdue, 4-1, which had to struggle for a 28-27 conquest of Wake Forest, continued its downward slide, dropping from fifth to seventh. The Boilermakers had been ranked No. 1 until a loss to Ohio State Oct. 12.

Georgia jumped from 10th to eighth on the strength of a 32-6 coast past Vanderbilt. Miami, Fla., climbed from 12th to ninth following a 13-8 victory over Virginia Tech. Miami's only loss in five games has been to Southern Cal.

Syracuse, 3-1, idle over the weekend, moved up a notch to tenth.

Florida, seventh last week, dropped all the way to 15th after losing to North Carolina 22-7.

California, which vanished from the rankings last week after losing to Army, made it back Tuesday into the No. 11 spot after blasting UCLA 39-15.

Michigan, with an opening loss to California—the only blemish on its record—was 12th, up five spots, after turning back Indiana 27-22.

Texas leaped from 17th to 13th with a 39-29 victory over Arkansas that dropped the Razorbacks from ninth to 16th. Missouri soared from 20th to 14th with a 16-14 edging of Nebraska that pushed the Huskers out of the Top 20.

Mississippi was 17th, up one spot. Louisiana State was 18th, up two notches. Texas Tech fell from 15th to 19th and Florida State returned to the ratings in the No. 20 spot.

Joining Nebraska in dropping out of the Top 20 were Stanford (14th last week), after a 21-21 tie with Washington State, and Indiana (19th).

The top 20, with first-place votes, records and total points awarded for first 15 picks on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

In Memoriam

IN MEMORY
In loving memory of my Dear Husband, William J. Montgomery who passed away October 22, 1967. Precious one from me is gone, the voice we love is still, the vacant place in my heart never can be filled. Sadly missed by his wife Hattie Montgomery and family.

In memory of Julia Gertrude Culp, October 22, 1967. Most of all the other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows. Brothers and Sisters, Aunts, and Cousins but, only one Mother in the whole wide world. Brother, Sisters and children

Cokes' Victory Over La Cruz Most Unexciting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lightweight champion Curtis Cokes isn't completely happy with his successful title defense against Argentina's Ramon La Cruz—and that just about makes it unanimous.

Neither is the challenger, of course, who blames a pulled arm muscle for losing the match, nor are the fans who catcalled and booed the lack of action Monday night.

"I just wasn't sharp," Cokes explained in his dressing room afterward. "I don't know if I was overtrained or under-trained, but I wasn't sharp."

Whatever it was, the mostly hitless sparring had the crowd stomping on the floor impatiently and the referee, during early rounds, urging the two fighters to mix it up.

When Gay Brewer won the Pensacola Open and the Masters last year he was the only PGA golfer to win successive tournaments in which he participated.

Bob Charles, a southpaw, won only $3,472 on the United States PGA tour in 1966 but in 1967 he won $72,468, a record for a foreign player. He's from New Zealand.

ON RAINY DAYS IN CAMP...

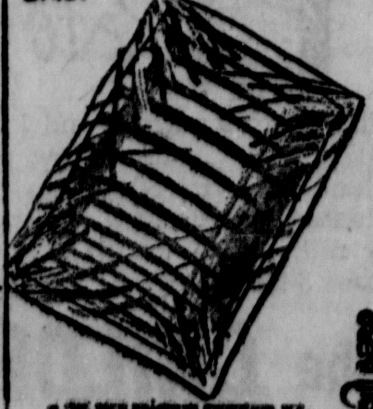

TRY TO AVOID STREAMS OR RIVERS THAT CAN OVERFLOW DURING A STORM. PICK A CAMPSITE THAT WILL BE HIGH AND DRY.

KEEP DUFFLE BAG UP OFF THE DAMP FLOOR. PLACE ON SOME DRY WOOD.

WEAR A HAT THAT HAS A WIDE BRIM ALL WAY AROUND SO THE RAIN WILL NOT RUN DOWN YOUR NECK.

Cokes' Victory Over La Cruz Most Unexciting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Wel-terweight champion Curtis Cokes isn't completely happy with his successful title defense against Argentina's Ramon La Cruz—and that just about makes it unanimous.

Neither is the challenger, of course, who blames a pulled arm muscle for losing the match, nor are the fans who catcalled and booed the lack of action Monday night.

"I just wasn't sharp," Cokes explained in his dressing room afterward. "I don't know if I was overtrained or under-trained, but I wasn't sharp."

Whatever it was, the mostly hitless sparring had the crowd stomping on the floor impatiently and the referee, during early rounds, urging the two fighters to mix it up.

When Gay Brewer won the Pensacola Open and the Masters last year he was the only PGA golfer to win suc-cessive tournaments in which he participated.

Bob Charles, a southpaw, won only $3,472 on the United States PGA tour in 1966 but in 1967 he won $72,468, a record for a foreign player. He's from New Zealand.

Priest Probes The Supernatural

TRANCE — Msgr. Dan Laning "talks" Hector Cavasos into an hypnotic trance while a group of other lads looks on.

MISSION, Tex. — A 75-year-old priest here takes quite seriously his probes into the realm of the subconscious, in spite of the fact that the bishop of the diocese has other views on the matter.

Msgr. Dan Laning, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church for the past 22 years, and just recently promoted to pastor emeritus, is a "clairvoyant" who has looked into the future 15 or 20 times.

He is also a master hypnotist. And that's not all. The priest found time to legally adopt some 18 children during his lifetime, putting all but one of them through college.

Being semi-officially retired now as pastor emeritus, Msgr. Laning is quite happy about developments. "It's been a ball," he says. "And now, as pastor emeritus, I will have time to do the things I really want to do."

Doing this means currently probing into the mysteries of hypnosis with some 25 boys who, with parental consent, are under Msgr. Laning's care in an effort to cure them of nervous habits.

Msgr. Laning told his congregation the rest of the mass pernatual study when in 1938 in Laredo, Tex., while saying mass he saw his mother on the altar.

"I suddenly knew — not thought — that my mother had just died," he said. "It was as if she had spoken to me and told me so, though she did not utter a word."

Msgr. Laning told his congregation the rest of the mass would be said for his mother who had just died. Later, he received a telephone message confirming what he already knew.

Years later, Laning, his curiosity out of bounds, queried the Library of Congress for books on hypnosis and thought transference. Immediately he

3 Arrested In Theft Case

Grand larceny was charged against three Dayton residents Monday in regard to the theft of a 2000 auto transmission from Deercreek Auto Parts, Williamsport.

Arrested were John Parrish and two juveniles. Parrish was bound to the Grand Jury Monday afternoon by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb. The two teenagers are awaiting trial by the Juvenile Court.

The alleged theft occurred about 2:30 a.m. Sunday, according to Chief Deputy George Linder, who stated that he saw one of the boys sitting in a car parked across from the auto lot. Linder said that he questioned the boy and was told that the car had broken down and that the youth was waiting for his father to come for him from Dayton.

Linder stated that he later saw the boy and two other people drive away in the car. He stopped the vehicle and conducted a search of it at which time he discovered a four speed transmission in the trunk which still had fresh mud on it and was leaking oil.

The three were arrested and taken to the Pickaway County Jail to await trials.

World production of woven cloth in 1963 amounted to around 90 billion square yards or 30 square yards per person.

South Viets Give Terms For Participation In Talks

PARIS (AP) — Informed diplomats disclosed today South Vietnam's main terms for taking part in a broadened Paris peace parley. They appear to clash with conditions publicly set by North Vietnam.

The four chief Saigon requirements, as reported here, are featured by the willingness of President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime to negotiate directly with the North Vietnamese in Paris. But they stipulate that the Communist-led National Liberation Front of South Vietnam must not be allowed independent status at the peace-making process as both Hanoi and the front demand. The front is the political arm of the Viet Cong.

The role of the front at a broadened peace conference which would follow any American halt in bombing is believed to have been one of the principal subjects of discussion between Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Thieu in Saigon. They have met five times since last week. It is generally believed Bunker has been seeking to modify some aspects of Thieu's policy.

The informants said the Thieu government intends very shortly to announce its terms for a peace parley—underlining the expectation of the South Vietnamese that a U.S. bomb-halt soon will be announced.

Here are Saigon's four conditions, as reported by the diplomats: with Hanoi's attitude also shown:

—The South Vietnamese government is prepared to deal and negotiate directly with the North Vietnamese government within an expanded Paris peace conference. Hanoi has never said it would meet with Thieu's regime.

—Saigon insists the projected peace conference must proceed rapidly and continuously from an American bomb halt to a cease-fire without stalling or filibustering. Hanoi has insisted that the problem of peace in South Vietnam is a matter not for it but for the Americans and National Liberation Front.

—Saigon demands that Hanoi must not exploit peace negotiations through troop infiltration and other acts of hostility against the South.

—Saigon's government refuses to concede the claims of the front to sit in at a peace conference as an independent party, or participant.

Clear and occasionally crisp autumn weather was the rule in wide areas of the country today.

Thundershowers erupting on a cold front creeping over the nation's midsection scattered rain through parts of the Midwest before dawn. Farther west, another cold front spilled rain into the Pacific Northwest.

Nearly an inch and a half of rain soaked Kansas City, Mo., Monday night in a gusty thunderstorm that also pelted the area with pea-sized hail.

Elsewhere, however, clear skies were in abundance and temperatures dipped into the 20s and 30s over the northern and central Rockies. Readings ranged throughout the 40s and 50s in most of the northern two-thirds of the country.

The mercury slid to 22 degrees at Evanston, Wyo., shortly after midnight.

Possible political changes in the U. S. Senate, as the result of the November election.

Will Election Change Senate Political Complexion?

WASHINGTON — Regardless of who wins the presidency in November, the chances are that he will have to do business with a Democratic Senate when he's inaugurated Jan. 20.

While there is a mathematical possibility that the GOP could win control of the Senate, there is little likelihood that it will, from a political standpoint.

The Republican National Committee has virtually conceded as much in a broadside in which it "pin points election opportunities for Republicans" in November. While it holds out hope of gaining control of the House, it only refers to the Senate elections as offering "a real opportunity to strengthen the Republican posture."

The present Senate lineup is 63 Democrats and 37 Republicans.

There are 34 seats up for election. Of these, 23 are held by Democrats, 11 by Republicans.

To win control, the GOP must retain the seats it now holds and pick up 14 held by Democrats. This would give Republicans a majority, 51 senators.

The Republicans stand a chance of picking up 12 seats now held by Democrats in these states: Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Missouri, South Dakota and Wisconsin. Of these, the best GOP possibilities are to be found in Arizona, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Missouri.

Offsetting GOP gains is the possibility of Democratic victories at the expense of Republicans in California, Iowa and New Hampshire. An overall Republican gain in the Senate is virtually conceded.

Among the more interesting Senate races are these:

Alabama — Perry Hooper may win the seat now held by retiring veteran Democrat Lister Hill.

Arizona — Barry Goldwater, 1964 GOP presidential nominee and former senator, is favored to defeat Roy Nelson, administrative aide to retiring Democrat Sen. Carl Hayden.

Arkansas — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is running like a scared rabbit against Republican Charles J. Bernard.

California — Max Rafferty, R. state superintendent of Public Instruction, is favored over former State Controller Alan Cranston, a strong vote getter whose Democratic support has been fractured by dissenting factions.

Illinois — Everett Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, should win handily over William G. Clark, his Democratic opponent.

New Hampshire — Sen. Norris Cotton is apparently in trouble in his race against a popular Democratic governor, John W. King.

Maryland — The bid of Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D., for reelection is endangered by a three-way race in which he is opposed by Republican congressman Charles McC. Mathias and erstwhile Democrat George P. Mahoney, running as an independent.

New York — Sen. Jacob K. Javits is expected to win handily over Democrat Paul O'Dwyer, who has refused to endorse the national Democratic ticket.

Ohio — John J. Gilligan, strongly backed by organized labor, is seeking an upset over Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, R. in this normally Republican state.

Pennsylvania — Democratic incumbent Sen. Joseph S. Clark is battling to retain his seat against Rep. Richard S. Schweiker.

A Circleville man was convicted of forgery Monday in Common Pleas Court and was placed on three years' probation.

Billy Joe Johnson, Lowery Lane, pleaded guilty to forgery and was tried on a bill of information by Judge William Ammer.
